Destination OMAHA

The objective for every college baseball team is to reach Omaha, Nebraska and compete on the biggest stage in the game at the College World Series. The Louisville Cardinals have attained that goal four times in the last 11 seasons, including three appearances in the last five years. Since first appearing at the CWS 2007 at Rosenblatt Stadium, Omaha has served as an integral part of the baseball culture at Louisville and that will continue into the 2018 season.

Road To OMAHA

Road to Omaha Goes Through Louisville

During each of the Cardinals' four CWS seasons, they hosted NCAA Championship games at Jim Patterson Stadium. Overall, Louisville has hosted 12 different rounds of NCAA postseason baseball in the last 11 seasons – NCAA Super Regionals in 2007, 2014, 2015, 2016 and 2017 and NCAA Regionals in 2009, 2010, 2013, 2014, 2015, 2016 and 2017. The Cardinals are 27-8 all-time in postseason home games.

NCAA Appearances

10 NCAA Regionals in 11 Years

Since head coach Dan McDonnell's arrival prior to the 2007 season, competing in the postseason has become the norm in Louisville as the program has advanced to 10 NCAA Regionals in the last 11 years. The Cardinals have played in the championship round in nine of those NCAA Regionals and they have seven regional titles. UofL has advanced to five straight NCAA Super Regionals, the nation's longest active streak. Seeing Louisville among the field of 64 teams announced each Memorial Day on ESPN and playing baseball in the month of June is more than just an expectation for the Cardinals, it is a reality.

Eight Regular Season Conference Titles in 11 Years

Louisville has won eight regular season conference championships in the last 11 years, including titles in each of the last six seasons. Including a pair of tournament titles, the Cardinals have won nine conference championships in 11 seasons under the guidance of head coach Dan McDonnell, highlighted by three straight ACC Atlantic Division championships in 2015, 2016 and 2017.

Louisville

The Louisville baseball program has been well represented on the international diamond in recent years with 13 players competing in events for their home countries since head coach Dan McDonnell was hired. Most recently, Brendan McKay and Devin Hairston competed for Team USA in 2016, while Zack Burdi, Corey Ray and McKay played for the Collegiate National Team in 2015.

During the summer of 2014, Kyle Funkhouser competed for the USA Baseball Collegiate National team leading the club in strikeouts. In 2010, Ryan Wright was second on the USA Collegiate National Team in hitting and was tied for the team lead in runs.

A year before Wright's success, Louisville was well-represented on the international baseball scene in 2009 with three players earning invitations to represent USA Baseball and one player representing Team Canada. McDonnell led the way serving as an assistant coach for Team USA, which finished with a 19-5 record overall and a win at the World Baseball Challenge in Canada. Joining McDonnell with Team USA in 2009 was pitcher Tony Zych, while infielder Phil Wunderlich was also invited to tryout.

During the fall of 2009, two former Cardinals were impressive on the international diamond as pitcher B.J. Rosenberg competed for Team USA at the Baseball World Cup, while righty Trystan Magnuson represented Team Canada at the same event. Rosenberg was a key contributor as the US squad won the World Cup title, while Magnuson did not allow a run to score in his 7.2 innings of relief and four appearances to earn Top Relief Pitcher honors and lead Canada to third-place.

McDonnell has coached and signed 18 players with international baseball experience with Team USA and Team Canada as either a team member or a tryout participant. Here is the list of players

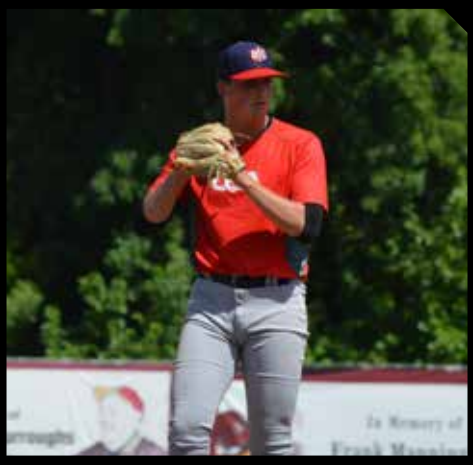
Baseball on the International Diamond



Competing for the 2014 USA Baseball Collegiate National Team, Louisville junior righthander Kyle Funkhouser finished with 1-2 record to go along with a 1.27 ERA (four earned runs in 28.1 innings) and a team-high 36 strikeouts while allowing just eight walks and 15 hits in five starts and six appearances on the mound.

Playing for the 2010 USA Baseball Collegiate National Team, former Cardinal Ryan Wright was second on the team in hitting at .361, tied for the team lead with 18 runs, second in home runs with two and third in RBI with 12 while making 17 starts in 19 games.

Cardinals Visit Dominican Republic

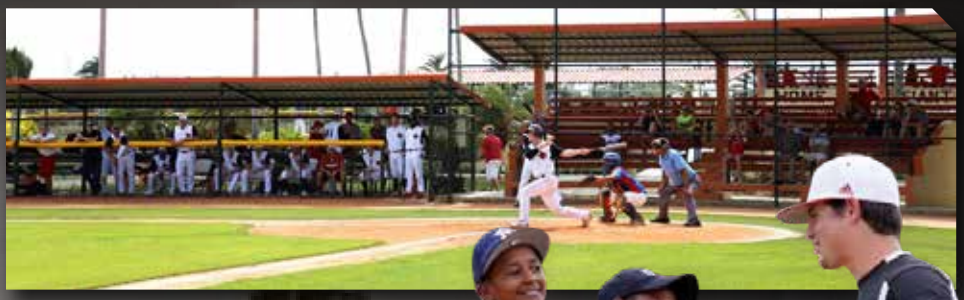
The Louisville baseball program conducted its first ever international trip with a visit to the Dominican Republic on Oct. 2-5, 2015. The trip, which coincided with the university's mid-term break, provided the Cardinals with the opportunity to gain valuable time on the field against talented Dominican teams while also assisting with multiple community service projects.

Louisville finished with a 2-2 mark in its four games away from home, including a pair of two-run losses to Dominican Republic Professional League foes. Louisville became the first American college program to play against Dominican Republic Professional Baseball League franchise Estrellas Orientales in its home ballpark dropping a 5-3 decision on Oct. 4 at Estadio Tetelo Vargas in San Pedro de Macorís. The Cardinals also earned an 18-0 victory over a Liga del Oesta team and a 22-3 win against an International Prospect League club while dropping a 10-8 decision to Leones del Escogido.

Away from the field, the Cardinals participated in a trio of community service opportunities. After arriving in the capital city of Santo Domingo, the Cardinals taught the fundamentals of baseball to a group of more than 70 kids ranging in ages 8 to 18 years old. Covering more than an hour, the clinic concluded with a group teaching session and with the Louisville players donating bats, gloves, hats, shoes and other baseball equipment with the kids.

After the team had earned a pair of split squad wins on the diamond, the second day of activities on the island included the Cardinals visiting and providing food to a girls orphanage as well as two nearby villages. Louisville first visited Pasitos de Jésus, a facility founded to help care for a young girl with Down Syndrome which also provides assistance to abused and abandoned youth girls in the Dominican Republic. The visit included a welcome introduction by the staff, a tour of the facility and singing by many of the 50 girls at the home before the Cardinals served everyone Papa John's Pizza for dinner.

Following their time at Pasitos de Jésus, the Cardinals split into two groups and visited a pair of rural villages. While at the villages, the players and coaches interacted with numerous local families while sharing food purchased through donations to SCORE International. Louisville partnered with SCORE International for their housing, transportation and community service work while on the ground in the Dominican Republic. SCORE International is a short term mission organization with extensive experience providing all-inclusive trips.



Atlantic Coast Conference

Tradition of Excellence

Consistency. It is the mark of true excellence in any endeavor.

However, in today's intercollegiate athletics, competition has become so balanced and so competitive that it is virtually impossible to maintain a high level of consistency.

Yet the Atlantic Coast Conference has defied the odds. Now in its 65th year of competition, the ACC has long enjoyed the reputation as one of the strongest and most competitive intercollegiate conferences in the nation. And that is not mere conjecture, the numbers support it.

Since the league's inception in 1953, ACC schools have captured 150 national championships, including 75 in men's competition and 74 in women's and one in men's and women's fencing. In addition, NCAA individual titles have gone to ACC student-athletes 169 times in men's competition and 134 times in women's action.

If success is best measured in terms of wins and losses, then the ACC is unrivaled in NCAA basketball annals. Eight of the last 17 NCAA Basketball Championships have been won by teams currently competing in the ACC.

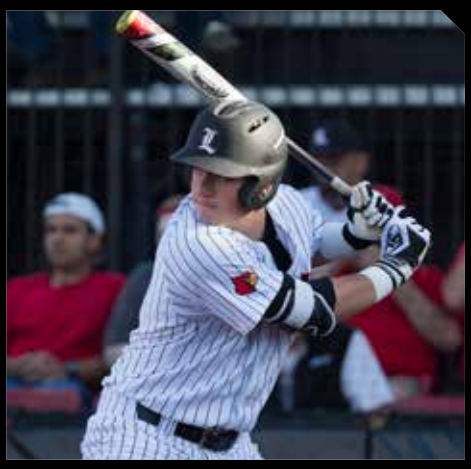
No conference has compiled a better NCAA Tournament record than the ACC. Since the inaugural tournament in 1939, league teams have posted an NCAA Tournament-best mark of 423-218 for a sterling .660 winning percentage against the nation's toughest competition.

The 15 teams currently in the ACC have combined for 612 NCAA Tournament victories - 181 more than the next nearest conference.

Since 1985, the ACC has produced 28 Final Four teams, five more than any other conference. The ACC has had at least one Final Four team in 22 of the last 29 years.

Since the NCAA Tournament expanded to 64 teams in 1985, ACC teams have compiled a 320-165 (.660) record, including 86 Sweet 16 appearances and 47 Regional Final berths - all NCAA Tournament bests. Since 1985, nearly half of the league teams (86-of-175) receiving NCAA berths have won at least two NCAA Tournament games.

Teams currently in the ACC have combined to win 17 NCAA Championships. North Carolina leads the way with six national titles, followed by Duke with five, Louisville three, NC State two and Syracuse one.



Brendan McKay was named 2017 ACC Player of the Year and 2015 ACC Freshman of the Year.

The Tar Heels claimed their sixth title a year ago, following championships in 1957, 1982, 1993, 2005 and 2009. Duke won NCAA titles in 2015, 2010, 2001, 1992 and 1991, while the Cardinals' captured the crown in 2013, 1986 and 1980.

The Wolfpack walked away with national titles in 1974 and 1983, while the Orange claimed their national championship in 2003.

The ACC has posted 10 or more NCAA Tournament wins 16 times overall and with its 11-8 mark in the 2017 NCAA Tournament, the ACC extended its non-losing streak in NCAA Tournament play to 30 years in a row. The Big Ten is second with a streak of 11 straight non-losing seasons, while the SEC is third at eight.

In 2016-17, ACC teams combined to win an NCAA-record 19 NCAA Tournament games, eclipsing the previous mark of 18 set by the Big East in 1985.

Over the past three years, ACC teams have combined to win an NCAA-record 47 Tournament games, bettering the previous mark of 42 set by the ACC 2014-16. The ACC's 47 wins are 19 more than any other conference.

In 2017-18, the ACC will feature three of the six active Division I coaches that are in the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame - Duke's Mike Krzyzewski, North Carolina's Roy Williams and Syracuse's Jim Boeheim.

The ACC's current membership further enhances the league's reputation in college basketball. The 15 schools that currently comprise the ACC have made 63 trips to the Final Four and have won 17 NCAA Championships, including eight of the last 17. Current league members have won 23,695 games and have had 763 NBA draft picks, including 250 first-round selections.

All 15 league members have 1,000 or more all-time wins, including eight schools with 1,500 or more victories.

Five National Titles in 2016-17

The conference will conduct championship competition in 27 sports during the 2017-18 academic year - 14 for women and 13 for men. The first ACC championship was held in swimming on February 25, 1954. The 13 sports for men include football, cross country, soccer, basketball, fencing, swimming and diving, indoor and outdoor track & field, wrestling, baseball, tennis, golf and lacrosse.

Women's sports were initiated in 1977 with the first championship meet held in tennis at Wake Forest University. Championships for women are currently conducted in cross country, field hockey, soccer, basketball, fencing, swimming and diving, indoor and outdoor track & field, tennis, golf, lacrosse, softball and rowing, with volleyball deciding its champion by regular-season play.

The 2016-17 academic year saw five ACC teams capture NCAA national team titles: North Carolina in men's basketball and women's lacrosse, Clemson in football, Virginia in men's tennis, and Notre Dame in men's fencing. In all, the ACC has won 82 national team titles over the last 20 years and has won two or more NCAA titles in 34 of the past 36 years.

Academically, the member institutions of the Atlantic Coast Conference again led the way among Autonomy 5 conferences in the "Best Colleges" rankings released by US News & World Report.

ACC History

The Atlantic Coast Conference was founded on May 8, 1953, at the Sedgefield Inn near Greensboro, N.C., with seven charter members - Clemson, Duke, Maryland, North Carolina, North Carolina State, South Carolina and Wake Forest - drawing up the conference by-laws.

The withdrawal of seven schools from the Southern Conference came early on the morning of May 8, 1953, during the Southern Conference's annual spring meeting. On June 14, 1953, the seven members met in Raleigh, N.C., where a set of bylaws was adopted and the name became officially the Atlantic Coast Conference.

On December 4, 1953, conference officials met again at Sedgefield and officially admitted Virginia as the league's eighth member. The first withdrawal of a school from the ACC came on June 30, 1971, when South Carolina tendered its resignation. The ACC operated with seven members until April 3, 1978, when Georgia Tech was admitted. The Atlanta school had withdrawn from the Southeastern Conference in January of 1964. The ACC expanded to nine members on July 1, 1991, with the addition of Florida State.

The conference expanded to 11 members on July 1, 2004, with the addition of Miami and Virginia Tech. On October 17, 2003, Boston College accepted an invitation to become the league's 12th member starting July 1, 2005.

The ACC added its 13th and 14th members on Sept. 18, 2011, when Pittsburgh and Syracuse accepted invitations to join the conference. The two schools officially joined the ACC on July 1, 2013. Notre Dame also officially joined the ACC on July 1, 2013, after announcing on Sept. 12, 2012 its intention to enter the league for competition in all sports but football, bringing the membership of the conference to 15.

On July 1, 2014, Louisville entered the ACC on the same day Maryland withdrew, keeping the conference's membership at 15 institutions.

Louisville celebrated its third straight ACC Atlantic Division title in 2017.

The University of Louisville features impressive facilities that have enriched the campus and entire Louisville community. Every Cardinal sports team has a new facility since 1994, with most being built within the last 18 years.

The state-of-the-art, 22,000-seat KFC Yum! Center has been the home of Cardinal Basketball since opening in 2010 (more info on preceding pages).

The Cardinals kicked off their 1998 football season in Papa John's Cardinal Stadium, a 55,000-seat on-campus facility that was expanded in 2010. Another expansion that will enclose the end zone is in progress.

Cardinal Arena and many athletic offices are housed in the Swain Student Activities Center on the northeast corner of campus. It serves as one of the home courts for volleyball and the practice home for women's basketball.

Built in 1994, the Bass-Rudd Tennis Center was honored as the 1995 USTA College Facility of the Year. It was the first component of Cardinal Park, an area which features multiple playing facilities for the Cardinals: Ulmer Stadium (softball), Cardinal Track Stadium and Trager Stadium (field hockey).

The University of Louisville Golf Club, located just east of Louisville in Simpsonville, Ky., is the home to the UofL men's and women's golf teams.

Patterson Stadium, the recently expanded home to the Cards' baseball team, opened in 2005, as did the Ralph Wright Natatorium and Trager Center fieldhouse. The Yum! Center provides a stellar basketball practice facility and offices as well as a practice home for volleyball and women's lacrosse. UofL opened in 2008 the Marshall Center, a multi-sport weight training facility, and the Field Hockey Complex, to house offices and locker rooms for field hockey. A riverside boat house for the Cardinals' rowing team opened in 2011.

A state-of-the-art soccer stadium, Dr. Mark & Cindy Lynn Stadium, opened in 2014. The new Thorntons Academic Center of Excellence opened in 2016 at the south end of the football stadium structure.

Jim Patterson Stadium

Since its opening in 2005, Jim Patterson Stadium has provided the University of Louisville baseball program with one of the great home field advantages in all of college baseball. With an initial seating capacity of 2,500 upon opening, the ballpark underwent an expansion project prior to the 2013 season increasing capacity to more than 4,000 and maintaining Jim Patterson Stadium as one of the elite facilities in the nation.

Spearheaded by the leadership gift of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Patterson, the privately funded expansion of Jim Patterson Stadium was a $4 million facility development plan which featured the addition of 1,500 chair back seats, a 6,400 sq. ft. terrace directly accessible above the chair back seats and a two-tiered ground level terrace extending from the first and third base dugouts. The project also included an expanded press box, which doubled the previous space used to facilitate media and hospitality, and a visiting team locker room behind the third base dugout.

The expansion doubled the number of chair back seats taking the total to 3,000 while the overall seating capacity of more than 4,000 places Jim Patterson Stadium among the Top 30 of university controlled collegiate ballparks in the nation. The increased permanent seating enables Louisville to host NCAA Regional and Super Regional games without the additional expense of temporary bleacher rentals. Since its opening, Jim Patterson Stadium has hosted seven NCAA Regionals (2009, 2010, 2013, 2014, 2015, 2016, 2017) and five NCAA Super Regionals (2007, 2014, 2015, 2016, 2017).

After starting construction in August of 2004, the University of Louisville unveiled Jim Patterson Stadium, located at the corner of Central Avenue and Third Street, on Friday, April 15, 2005, when the Cardinals battled East Carolina in front of a then-school record crowd of 3,213.

A pregame ceremony to officially dedicate the stadium featured UofL graduate, former baseball team walk-on and local entrepreneur Jim Patterson, whose seven-figure donation led the drive to construct the $8.5 million ballpark. Joining Patterson were Louisville Mayor Jerry Abrahamson, UofL Board of Trustees Chairman Junior Bridgeman, U.S. Representative Anne M. Northup, UofL President Dr. James Ramsey, UofL Vice president for Athletics Tom Jurich, and more than 100 UofL baseball alumni.

Along with the 3,000 chairback seats, Jim Patterson Stadium has a tiered, turf berm in left field. The press box features an expanded television suite, two radio booths, game operations booth, an expanded seating area for non-broadcast media, an AD suite and a development suite. The ballpark measures 330 feet down the lines, 375 to the power alleys and 402 to straightaway center. Prior to the 2015 season, the University of Louisville partnered with ANC Sports for the installation

"I love this ballpark. I love this setting – you have Churchill Downs on one side and Papa John's Cardinal Stadium on the other. It's sitting right in the middle of Louisville and it's free. I love it. This is just a cool college ballpark."

– Kyle Peterson,
ESPN College Baseball Analyst

of a new LED video board in right-centerfield at Jim Patterson Stadium. The all-digital surface more than quadrupled the size of the previous video space and measures 36-feet wide and 23-feet tall.

The playing surface is FieldTurf, same as the Tampa Bay Rays' Tropicana Field, as well as Louisville's Papa John's Cardinal Stadium. The playing field was completely resurfaced in the summer of 2013 providing the Cardinals with one of the nation's best surfaces. The exterior of the ballpark has elements that mirror UofL's nearby football facility.

The adjacent building along the first base side of the ballpark houses the baseball offices, while the basement of the building features three pitching/batting cages, full club house facilities with a players' lounge, theatre style team-meeting room, weight room, equipment room, computer lab, training room and laundry facilities.

The first eight feet of the roof supports are constructed with green brick from the left field wall at historic Parkway Field, and infield dirt was taken from Parkway and placed in the batters box as a tribute to a facility that has seen the likes of Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Honus Wagner, Grover Cleveland Alexander, Satchel Paige, Pee Wee Reese and Jackie Robinson among others.

In January of 2007, crews converted the home plate area from dirt into a field turf surface complete with permanent batters boxes. The only dirt on the field is on the pitcher's mound.

The stadium was placed on display to a nationwide audience and received rave reviews during the 2007 Super Regional between the Cardinals and Oklahoma State, with all three games being televised by ESPN and ESPN2. Fans poured into the stadium, establishing impressive attendance numbers.

The 2008 off-season included a complete reconstruction of the left field berm, with terracing giving the fans a place for a lawn chair or blanket. Children of all ages can enjoy the playground beyond the fence in centerfield.

The Cardinals have won more than 78 percent of their games at Jim Patterson Stadium since opening the gates during the 2005 season. Of the 12 NCAA postseason rounds contested at Jim Patterson Stadium, the Louisville baseball program has advanced through nine of those, including sweeping the 2017 NCAA Regional and NCAA Super Regional to clinch the program's fourth College World Series appearance in 11 seasons. In NCAA Championship games at Jim Patterson Stadium, the Cardinals have produced a 27-8 record, including 11 straight wins from 2013 to 2015. A school record crowd of 6,237 packed the ballpark to watch as Louisville defeated UK on June 10, 2017 to clinch a trip to Omaha.

All areas of the park are accessible to those with physical disabilities.

Live Music from "The Nest"

While the music in Jim Patterson Stadium, like most college ballparks across the country, will reflect the typical top 40, classic rock and country tunes, UofL has a unique source for sound.

Athletic pep band director Al Greener, a longtime baseball fan, is also a proficient keyboard player, and gives the Cardinals something usually reserved for the big league ballparks and TD Ameritrade Park Omaha.

Without so much as a note of written music sitting in front of him, he supplies the old-school baseball sounds of a pipe organ into the concourse and onto the field. Whether it be an impromptu tribute to a hometown, a play on someone's name, game situation or play, or something traditional like the National Anthem, there is no mistaking the unique sound Greener provides Cardinal baseball fans.

Shad Mason HACK SHACK

On Friday, May 5, 2006, University of Louisville senior Brian Halford struck out a career-high 10 in eight innings to lead the Cardinals to a 4-3 win over Villanova on a rain-soaked night at Jim Patterson Stadium. But that was secondary to a pregame ceremony during which the Shad Mason SHACK SSHACK, an indoor batting facility located down the right field line at Patterson Stadium, was dedicated.

The SHACK is named after the son of former UofL head baseball coach John Mason. Shad Mason's life was tragically cut short by cancer when he was 12 years old. Now, through the generosity of local businessmen and the Mason Family, the Cardinal baseball team can get in a bullpen session or some swings 365 days a year, regardless of the weather conditions with the state-of-the-art indoor batting facility that can be used in conjunction with the basement facilities at the stadium and the Trager Center just beyond the center field fence.

Student Housing

Live like a Cardinal

Among the campus living options at the University of Louisville is the modern Bettie Johnson Hall, located on the northwest corner of campus. Campus life continues to build at UofL with the addition of Cardinal Park athletic facilities, new student housing, and many on-campus student events.

The new student quarters are equipped with modern kitchens and private bedrooms featuring individual phone, computer and cable television connections. The complex also contains a pool, sand volleyball court, fitness center, television room, game room and laundry facilities.

When it comes to student living the University of Louisville sets the bar high. They are among the elite when it student living options, offering some of the finest living quarters in the nation. Students have the luxury of having many fine amenities, dining options and stores right at the palm of their hand.

Louisville's Team

Louisville The University & City

University of Louisville

The University of Louisville attracts many of the nation's best and brightest minds to its friendly, park-like campus in the heart of Kentucky's largest city. UofL's incoming freshman class scored an average 25.5 on the ACT test in 2015, more than four points higher than the national average and the most dramatic jump in Kentucky over the past decade.

Since 2003, more than 100 UofL students have won prestigious Fulbright awards, more than all of Kentucky's other public universities combined and on par with several Ivy League universities. This success stems in part from the fact that UofL faculty are not only among the best in their fields, but they take personal interest in students and push them to do more than they dreamed possible.

Students at UofL enjoy a wide range of study options - more than 170 fields in 11 schools and colleges - with many nationally ranked programs among them. UofL's location in an area of more than a million people is also an asset, giving students many opportunities to apply the critical thinking skills they hone in the classroom to relevant, hands-on experiences in the community.

UofL students benefit from superb facilities, including a library system ranked among the top 100 research libraries in North America and one of the nation's top 10 academic clean rooms, where work in bioengineering, nanotechnology and other high-demand fields occurs. New apartment-style housing and a sparkling $38 million, 128,000-square-foot student recreation center provide first-class places to live and play on campus. Also, the 40,000-square-foot Thronton's Academic Center for Excellence at the south end of the football stadium provides a new central location for academic operations for student-athletes and support staff.

UofL remains committed to building a nurturing and challenging intellectual climate, a respect for diversity and a genuine understanding of how diversity enriches a vibrant metropolitan research university. One of the university's goals is to give every arts and sciences student the chance to study abroad at least once during his or her undergraduate career.

The university also is one of the fastest-growing research institutions in the nation, yielding many milestone discoveries. UofL faculty conducted the world's first successful implantation of an artificial heart and completed the nation's first successful hand transplant. University faculty currently head the world's first FDA-approved clinical trial using adult cardiac stem cells to treat heart disease and are pioneering the use of locomotion training to help paralyzed patients walk again.

Over the last couple of years, UofL has emerged as an advanced manufacturing hub. Through partnerships with industry leaders such as General Electric and UL (formerly Underwriters Laboratories), faculty and students interact with makers from around the world, whether they are physically present or connected virtually. In addition, the maker spaces UofL placed in the West End School and Nativity Academy — both located in lower income areas of Louisville – allow at-risk students to learn the latest 3-D printing techniques and improve their self-confidence.

In 2009, UofL and the Commonwealth of Kentucky announced the establishment of the Conn Center for Renewable Energy Research and Environmental Stewardship, which annually recognizes outstanding ideas with its Leigh Ann Conn Prize for Renewable Energy. UofL's School of Public Health and Information Sciences received $5.7 million from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention to establish a Youth Violence Prevention Center. In recognition of the growing senior population, UofL initiated an Institute for Sustainable Health and Optimal Aging to foster a collaborative community that enables older adults to flourish.

UofL also stands out in community service. In fact, it is ranked among the top 12 "Best Neighbor" schools in the nation. Based on its curricular engagement, outreach and partnerships, the university is ranked as a Carnegie Community Engagement university, one of fewer than 200 such institutions nationwide. In one year alone, UofL students, faculty and staff contributed more than $25.1 million to charitable organizations through volunteerism and direct donations. UofL's Signature Partnership, a project with community organizations and businesses to improve the social, cultural, educational, health care and economic development services in a historically underserved area of Louisville, is considered a national model for community engagement.

University Administration

Dr. Gregory Postel
Interim President

Gregory C. Postel, M.D. assumed the interim presidency of the University of Louisville in January 2017.

Dr. Postel already was serving as Interim Executive Vice President for Health Affairs, a position to which he was appointed in December 2015. The EVPHA provides leadership for the university's Health Sciences Center, which includes the Schools of Dentistry, Medicine, Nursing, and Public Health and Information Sciences, as well as 16 centers and institutes. The EVPHA serves as a key member of the UofL President's leadership team and has principal responsibility for external affairs, including hospital relations and other affiliated entities.

Dr. Postel has been with the University of Louisville School of Medicine since 1994, where he began as an Assistant Professor of Radiology and the Head of the Neuroradiology section. He served as Acting Chairman of Radiology from 1997-1999 and was named permanent Chairman in April 1999.

In July 2011, Dr. Postel became the founding Chairman of the Board for University of Louisville Physicians (ULP) and then served as the Interim Chief Executive Officer from 2013-2014. In August 2014, he was named permanent CEO of ULP.

Dr. Postel was appointed as the Vice Dean of Clinical Affairs for the University of Louisville School of Medicine in September 2014. He has been active in payment reform initiatives and medical practice reform projects.

Dr. Postel has played a key role in the formation and governance of numerous Health Sciences Center entities including Passport Health Plan and the Kentuckiana Medical Reciprocal Risk Retention Group. He was the Principal Investigator on an institutional grant to establish imaging research facilities at UofL. He is an active member of a number of academic societies including the American College of Radiology, Radiological Society of North America, et al., was a board examiner for the American Board of Radiology and is a graduate of the Academy of Radiology Leadership and Management.

In their free time, Dr. Postel and his wife Sally enjoy spending time with their twin 7-year-old sons, Chris and Alex.

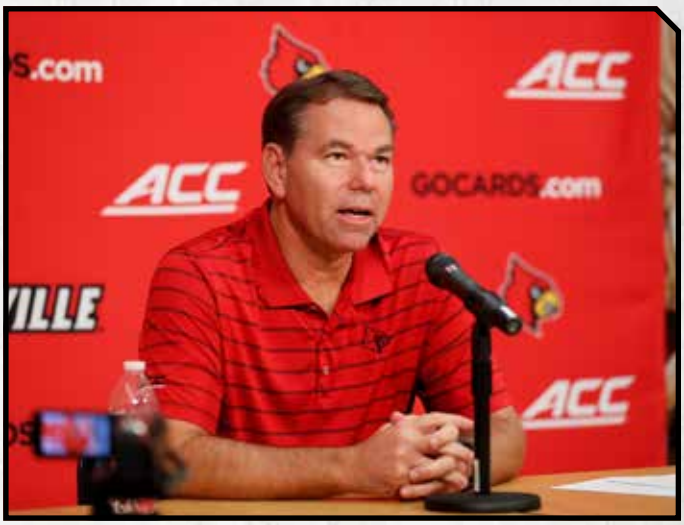
Vincent Tyra
Interim Director of Athletics

Vincent Tyra was named University of Louisville's acting director of athletics on Oct. 3, 2017.

UofL Interim President Dr. Greg Postel announced Tyra's appointment at a press conference.

"Vince Tyra is an exceptional leader who will provide stability to our athletics department," Postel said. "His success in business, his athletic background and his close ties to the university and the athletics department will be important to the continuing success of our program."



Tyra currently serves as an operating partner for Southfield Capital, a position he has held since 2007, and as an advisor to ISCO Industries Inc. where he was formerly the president. He also formerly served as the president of Retail and Activewear for Fruit of the Loom.

A Louisville native, he is the son of legendary UofL basketball player Charlie Tyra. He graduated from Trinity High School and from the University of Kentucky, where he earned a Bachelor of Science degree in health administration. He also was a member and two-year captain of the UK baseball team.

"I am honored to have been selected as the Acting Athletic Director at the University of Louisville," Tyra said. "I am excited by the challenge to lead one of the most elite athletic programs in college sports that's near and dear to my heart. I intend to provide leadership to our athletic department, coaches, student-athletes, fans, donors and the university as a whole."

Tyra has been a long-time supporter of Louisville athletics. He joined the University of Louisville Foundation Board of Directors in February 2017 and now chairs the organization's Finance Committee.

City of Louisville

The Louisville area owes its existence to the Falls of the Ohio, the only place where the 981-mile Ohio River flows over bedrock. The falls were really a rapids where the river dropped about 27 feet in three miles, usually blocking passage by boat.

Early explorers recognized the strategic importance of the Falls. George Rogers Clark established the first settlement there in 1778, to use as a base of his invasion of British territory in Southern Illinois and Indiana. Two years later that settlement became Louisville -- named for King Louis XVI of France, who was supporting the American Revolution.

Louisville quickly became a vital transportation center for the young nation. Ports were establish above and below the Falls. Passengers and freight moved overland around the rapids. Trails and roads connected the ports to inland settlements in Kentucky and Indiana. The steamboat brought prosperity and growth to the area; by 1850, Louisville was the 10th-largest city in the nation.

In the decades that followed, railroads greatly improved connections with cities throughout the nation, and Louisville became known as the "Gateway to the South." Businesses and industries were attracted by the strong and convenient transportation network and Louisville became an industrial center.

In recent years, the economy of the Louisville area has shifted from a heavy reliance on industry to an increasing emphasis on services, including earning a worldwide reputation as a transportation and distribution center. Once again, location is a key factor. Louisville is located near the center of the eastern half of the contiguous 48 states, with nearly half of the nation's consumer markets within a 500-mile radiuws. The climate is mild enough that Louisville's airport is rarely closed because of weather.

Climate, location and a good transportation system helped convince United Parcel Service to establish its national hub in Louisville in the early 1980s. UPS, in turn, is attracting businesses that depend on fast and efficient transportation of their goods to other parts of the nation and throughout the world.

Cardinal fans participate in a rally at Fourth Street Live!, a downtown entertainment area.

"The Ville" has been labeled as the Best College Sports Town in America

The Kentucky Center for the Arts is one of the nation's premier performing arts facilities, housing three spacious theatres.

Sports, including UofL athletics, are an important facet of life in the Louisville area. Churchill Downs has hosted three Breeders' Cups and continues its traditional Run For The Roses -- the Kentucky Derby -- the first Saturday each May. The 1996, 2000 and 2014 PGA Championships were staged at Valhalla Golf Course in eastern Jefferson County, which was also the site of the 2008 Ryder Cup international competition. The Louisville Bats, the triple-A baseball team of the Cincinnati Reds, have drawn over 1 million fans to games in a single season with Slugger Field stationed on the downtown riverfront. Over 140 public parks, 20 public golf courses and 226 public tennis courts also provide outdoor entertainment.

Yet even though Louisville has changed through the years, it still has the flavor and gentleness of a Southern town. The Belle of Louisville steamboat still paddles its way up and down the Ohio River daily, mint juleps are still served under an old oak tree during the hot and muggy summers and fishing in the many lakes and rivers of Louisville and surrounding counties is still a favorite pastime.

Another favorite in Louisville is trying to figure out the correct pronunciation of the city. So if you're a tourist, don't say Louieville or Lewis-ville. Natives claim it's Lou-a-vuhl. Either way, Louisville is still the same happy place.

Dan McDonnell

Head Coach – 12th Season | 509-203 Record at Louisville | The Citadel, 1992 & 1995

On June 27, 2006, Dan McDonnell, one of the top young minds in college baseball, was named the 18th head coach of the University of Louisville baseball team. And on June 15, 2007, McDonnell and the Cardinals took the field at hallowed Rosenblatt Stadium in Omaha for game one of the 2007 College World Series.

Not bad for 353 days on the job.

As the first rookie head coach to lead his team to Omaha in 27 years, McDonnell was named National Coach of the Year by Rivals.com after guiding the Cardinals to a then-school record 47 wins during that 2007 season. He followed that impressive debut season by leading Louisville to nine more NCAA appearances during the next 10 years, including three more College World Series berths in 2013, 2014 and 2017, as well as eight conference regular season titles and two conference tournament championships. Louisville has hosted 12 different rounds of NCAA postseason baseball in the last 11 years with NCAA Super Regionals in 2007, 2014, 2015, 2016 and 2017 as well as seven NCAA Regionals in 2009, 2010, 2013, 2014, 2015, 2016 and 2017. McDonnell added his second career National Coach of the Year honor following the 2017 season receiving the award from Baseball America.

The CWS appearances, NCAA berths and conference championships are the perfect payoff for University of Louisville director of athletics Tom Jurich, who has made it a priority to secure the Port Chester, N.Y., native and his assistant coaches with long-term contracts to maintain the consistency and foundation needed to keep the Cardinals among the nation's elite baseball programs.

In McDonnell's 11 seasons as head coach, Louisville ranks third nationally in wins with 509, including a school-record 53 wins during the record-setting 2017 season. During the 11-year span, the Cardinals have produced a consensus National Player of the Year (Brendan McKay, 2017), 34 All-Americans, 85 all-conference selections, six conference Pitcher of the Year winners, four conference Player of the Year winners and one conference Freshman of the Year, while 57 Louisville players have signed professional contracts after being selected in the Major League Baseball First-Year Player Draft.

The Louisville baseball team concluded its record-setting 2017 season ranked fifth in every major national poll after advancing to the College World Series for the fourth time in school history, setting a school record for wins with a 53-12 mark and earning the program's third straight ACC Atlantic Division championship. In addition to the team success, the Cardinals also received numerous individual honors, highlighted by consensus National Player of the Year Brendan McKay. The 53 wins in 2017 for Louisville surpassed the previous school record mark of 51 victories achieved in 2013. The Cardinals are the only team in the country to advance to an NCAA Super Regional in each of the last five seasons while ranking second nationally in total wins (251) during that five-year span.

McKay became the program's first National Player of the Year as the junior two-way standout swept each of the seven awards, including the prestigious Golden Spikes Award and Dick Howser Trophy. The Darlington, Pennsylvania native also earned his third straight John Olerud Two-Way Player of the Year honor and was selected as the ACC Player of the Year. McKay became the highest MLB Draft selection in program history going fourth overall in the first round to the Tampa Bay Rays.

Pitcher Lincoln Henzman was honored as the 2017 National Collegiate Baseball Writers Association Stopper of the Year, a First Team All-American and All-ACC First Team selection while also being selected in the fourth round of the MLB Draft by the Chicago White Sox. Shortstop Devin Hairston was selected as the ACC Defensive Player of the Year, earned All-America honors for the second straight season and was chosen in the sixth round of the MLB Draft by the Milwaukee Brewers.

Drew Ellis emerged as one of the nation's top hitters in 2017 earning First Team All-America honors, All-ACC First Team recognition and was the ACC Baseball Scholar-Athlete of the Year. The third baseman was selected 44th overall in the second round of the MLB Draft by the Arizona Diamondbacks. Additionally, sophomore reliever Sam Bordner was an All-American honoree, pitcher Nick Bennett was a Freshman All-American and All-ACC Third Team selection, Colby Fitch was an All-ACC Second Team member and was selected in the 13th round of the MLB Draft by the Philadelphia Phillies, Kade McClure was an All-ACC Third Team honoree and was chosen in the sixth round of the MLB Draft by the White Sox and outfielder Logan Taylor was taken in the 16th round of the MLB Draft by the White Sox.

The Louisville baseball program experienced another strong season in 2016 as the Cardinals won their second straight ACC Atlantic Division championship, advanced to a fourth straight NCAA Super Regional and reached the 50-win plateu for the fourth time in school history while finishing 50-14 overall. Louisville players received numerous honors and accolades in 2016, highlighted by Brendan McKay becoming the first repeat winner of the John Olerud Two-Way Player of the Year Award. McKay was among seven different Cardinals (Zack Burdi, Devin Hairston, Drew Harrington, Kade McClure, Corey Ray, Nick Solak) earning All-America honors this season setting a single season school record. Louisville also received a pair of ACC awards for the second straight season as Harrington was tabbed as the league's Pitcher of the Year and McDonnell repeated as Coach of the Year.

For the third time in school history and the second straight season, Louisville was chosen by the NCAA Division I Selection Committee as a national seed for the 2016 NCAA Championship. Named as the No. 7 national seed in 2010 and No. 3 national seed in 2015, the Cardinals were in the No. 2 spot in 2016 after leading the nation in RPI top 50 wins with 20 and was second overall in the RPI. The Cardinals finished the season ranked in the top 10 nationally in nine different statistical categories -- hits allowed per 9 IP (2nd), sacrifice flies (3rd), shutouts (3rd), ERA (5th), batting average (6th), doubles (6th), slugging percentage (6th), WHIP (6th) and runs scored (9th).

The Louisville baseball program set a school record with three players selected in the first round of the 2016 MLB Draft, while seven of the team's eight selections were among the first 115 players selected overall. Ray became the highest draft selection ever for the Cardinals going No. 5 overall to the Milwaukee Brewers. He was joined in the first round by Burdi (No. 26, Chicago White Sox) and Will Smith (No. 32, Los Angeles Dodgers). That trio was followed by Solak (2nd Round, No. 62, New York Yankees), Harrington (3rd Round, No. 80, Atlanta Braves), Blake Tiberi (3rd Round, No. 100, New York Mets), Kyle Funkhouser (4th Round, No. 115, Detroit Tigers) and Lincoln Henzman (31st Round, Seattle Mariners).

The 2015 baseball season was another record-setting campaign for Louisville, highlighted by an impressive debut in the ACC as well as the program's third straight NCAA Super Regional berth. In its inaugural season in the ACC, Louisville dominated the Atlantic Division in record-setting fashion with a 25-5 mark and McDonnell was honored as the ACC Coach of the Year.

For the second time in school history, Louisville was tabbed by the NCAA Division I Selection Committee as a national seed for the 2015 NCAA Championship entering the postseason as the No. 3 team in the nation. Despite falling one game short of their third straight trip to Omaha, the Cardinals hosted NCAA Regional and Super Regional at Jim Patterson Stadium for the second straight season while advancing to their fifth Super Regional in nine years.

McKay delivered the best rookie season in school history earning national Freshman of the Year honors from multiple organizations as well as being selected as the John Olerud Two-Way Player of the Year by the College Baseball Hall of Fame. Tabbed as the nation's top freshman by Baseball America, D1Baseball and Perfect Game, McKay was also honored as a First Team All-American by those same three outlets as well as the National Collegiate Baseball Writers Association and was the ACC Freshman of the Year.

Led by McKay's Freshman of the Year and Two-Way Player of the Year honors, the Cardinals earned numerous national accolades during the 2015 season. McKay was joined by Ray, Burdi and Funkhouser as All-Americans, while Henzman and Sean Leland were tabbed as Freshman All-Americans.

Along with the two major awards for McDonnell and McKay, the Cardinals had a league-high five players named to the All-ACC first team to go with two second team selections and two All-Freshman Team honorees. McKay led the way for Louisville earning All-ACC first team accolades as a starting pitcher, second team accolades as a utility player and All-Freshman team recognition. The Cardinals were also represented on the All-ACC first team by infielder Sutton Whiting, Funkhouser, Burdi and Ray. Pitcher Josh Rogers was named to the second team and Henzman was chosen for the All-Freshman team.

Following the season, three Louisville players signed professional contracts after being chosen in the 2015 Major League Baseball Draft. Rogers was chosen in the 11th round by the New York Yankees, lefty pitcher Robert Strader went in the 12th round to the Baltimore Orioles and infielder Sutton Whiting was taken by the Chicago Cubs in the 24th round. Additionally, Funkhouser became the highest draft selection in school history going 35th overall to the Los Angeles Dodgers during the first round of picks, but the righty elected to return to Louisville for his senior season in 2016.

The Cardinals continued their upward trajectory in 2014 highlighted by the return to Omaha for the third time under McDonnell, another 50-win season, the inaugural American Conference regular season championship and a pair of successful NCAA postseason events at Jim Patterson Stadium. After being chosen as a host site for an NCAA Regional for the second straight year, Louisville swept through its NCAA Regional with wins over Kent State, Kansas and Kentucky before clinching the CWS berth with a Super Regional triumph over Kennesaw State in front of a then-school record crowd of 6,007.

Louisville ended 2014 ranked as highly as No. 6 in the final national rankings while also leaving its mark on the NCAA statistics. On the mound, the Cardinals ranked fifth in the nation in strikeouts per nine innings at 8.4, 12th in hits allowed per nine innings (7.4), 19th nationally in shutouts with eight and 20th in ERA at 2.80. Offensively, Louisville was second in the nation in stolen bases for the second straight season with 133, fifth in stolen bases per game at 1.99, fifth in runs with 417, sixth in hit by pitch with 109 and 14th in sacrifice flies with 34.

Individually, the trio of senior outfielder Jeff Gardner, junior righty closer Nick Burdi and sophomore righty starter Kyle Funkhouser led the way earning All-American honors for the Cardinals in 2014. Gardner was named Second Team All-America by Collegiate Baseball newspaper and the NCBWA and Third Team All-America by the ABCA, while Burdi, the NCBWA Stopper of the Year, was named First Team All-America by Collegiate Baseball newspaper, Perfect Game, the ABCA and the NCBWA. Funkhouser earned Second Team All-America honors from the NCBWA and Collegiate Baseball newspaper and Third Team All-America accolades from Baseball America and Perfect Game.

Prior to the postseason, Gardner was named American Conference Player of the Year to lead a group of seven Cardinals earning All-American Conference honors. It marked the eighth time in the last eight seasons a member of the Cardinals has been selected as conference player or pitcher of the year and the first time a Cardinal was the player of the year since Chris Dominguez earned back-to-back Big East Player of the Year awards in 2008 and 2009. Joining Gardner as All-American Conference First Team selections were Burdi, third baseman Alex Chittenden and Funkhouser. Righty Jared Ruxer and outfielder/lefty pitcher Cole Sturgeon were All-American Conference Second Team honorees, while second baseman Zach Lucas was an All-American Conference Third Team pick.

Major League Baseball continued to take notice in the Louisville program as a total eight Cardinals were chosen in the 2014 MLB Draft with seven of those signing professional contracts. Burdi led the way becoming the highest draft pick in school history at the time going 46th overall in the second round to the Minnesota Twins. He was followed by Gardner going in the eighth round to the Washington Nationals, Sturgeon going in the 10th round to the Boston Red Sox, righty Jared Ruxer going in the 12th round by the Los Angeles Angels of Anaheim, lefty Joe Filomeno went in the 15th round to the Texas Rangers, infielder Grant Kay going in the 27th round to the Tampa Bay Rays, Lucas going in the 29th round to the Pittsburgh Pirates (did not sign pro contract) and lefty Kyle McGrath in the 36th round to the San Diego Padres.

Even with all of the success in the program since McDonnell's arrival, the 2013 season proved to be one of the best ever with the Cardinals return to the College World Series for the second time while also winning a record-setting 51 games. That victory total included a 16-game winning streak to close the regular season to clinch the fourth BIG EAST championship in five seasons. Louisville's march to Omaha started at home where the Cardinals' hosted an NCAA Regional at Jim Patterson Stadium for the third time. After earning wins over Bowling Green, Miami (Fla.) and Oklahoma State, Louisville traveled to Nashville, Tenn., for an NCAA Super Regional showdown with No. 2 national seed Vanderbilt. In the latest chapter of a highly competitive rivalry, the Cardinals became the first team in 2013 to take a series from the Commodores winning back-to-back days at Hawkins Field to advance to the CWS.

The Cardinals closed the season ranked as highly as No. 8 in the final set of national rankings. Led by one of the nation's best pitching staffs, Louisville closed the season fifth in the NCAA in ERA at 2.52 and first in strikeouts per nine innings at 9.6. Offensively, the Cardinals were second in the nation in stolen bases with 150, just three shy of matching the school record of 153 set during the 2007 CWS season. Louisville also led the nation in hit-by-pitch with 129.

Individually, Burdi and righty pitcher Jeff

Thompson earned All-America honors from multiple organizations to become the 14th and 15th players respectively at Louisville to be honored among the nation's best. Burdi garnered All-America honors from Perfect Game (First Team) and the NCBWA (Second Team), while Thompson was named Louisville Slugger Second Team All-America by College Baseball newspaper, Third Team All-America by Perfect Game and Third Team All-America by NCBWA. Two more righty pitchers, Funkhouser and Anthony Kidston, were named Louisville Slugger Freshman All-Americans by Collegiate Baseball newspaper.

Following the regular season, Thompson was honored as BIG EAST Conference Pitcher of the Year in 2013 becoming the fifth different Louisville player to earn the award as a school record-tying 10 Cardinals earned All-BIG EAST accolades. Joining Thompson as First Team All-BIG EAST selections were Gardner and Burdi. The Cardinals, who equaled last year's record-setting 10 All-BIG EAST selections, had four players named Second Team All-BIG EAST -- righthanded pitcher Chad Green, outfielder Coco Johnson, shortstop Sutton Whiting and junior third baseman Ty Young. Earning Third Team All-BIG EAST honors from Louisville were senior second baseman Nick Ratajczak and outfielders Adam Engel and Sturgeon.

Continuing another trend since McDonnell's arrival, Louisville was well represented in the Major League Baseball First-Year Player Draft in 2013 as seven Cardinals were selected during the three-day event. Right-hander Dace Kime was taken 79th overall by the Cleveland Indians in the third round of the 40-round draft, Thompson was selected 94th overall in the third round by the Detroit Tigers and Young was taken in the seventh round by the Tampa Bay Rays to close day two. Johnson was taken in the 11th Round by the Miami Marlins, Green was selected in the 11th Round by the Detroit Tigers, lefty Cody Ege was taken in the 15th Round by the Texas Rangers and Engel was selected in the 19th Round by the Chicago White Sox.

The 2012 season was another successful one for Louisville as the Cardinals won another BIG EAST Conference regular season championship and advanced to the NCAA Regional in Tucson. Overall, Louisville finished with a 41-22 record while advancing to the NCAA Regional final before falling to eventual national champion Arizona. Along with the BIG EAST title, a school record 10 Louisville players earned All-BIG EAST honors led by BIG EAST Pitcher of the Year Justin Amlung, who was also a Louisville Slugger Third Team All-America selection.

Louisville had five players named Second Team All-BIG EAST in 2012 - first baseman Stewart Ijames, Engel, Gardner, Sturgeon and Thompson. Ruxer became the second Louisville player ever to be named BIG EAST Rookie of the Year and led a foursome of Cardinals to earn Third Team All-BIG EAST accolades. Joining Ruxer on the third team was righty reliever Derek Self, second Ratajczak and Young.

Following the season, Louisville had a trio of right-handed pitchers in Matt Koch, Self and Amlung selected during the 2012 MLB First-Year Player Draft. Koch was selected 107th overall by the New York Mets in the third round of the 40-round, three-day draft. He was followed by Self, who was taken 294th overall in the ninth round by the Washington Nationals, and Amlung, who was selected 374th overall in the 12th round by the Chicago Cubs.

In 2011, Louisville had four players earn All-BIG EAST honors - second baseman Ryan Wright (First Team), pitcher Justin Amlung (First Team), outfielder Stewart Ijames (Second Team) and pitcher Tony Zych (Third Team). Following the season, three Cardinals signed with professional teams after being selected in the 2011 MLB Draft as Zych was taken in the fourth round by the Chicago Cubs, Wright was selected in the fifth round by the Cincinnati Reds and catcher J.J. Ethel was taken in the 49th round by the Los Angeles Dodgers. Two other Cardinals, Amlung and pitcher Derek Self, elected to return to Louisville after being drafted.

The 2010 season included the Cardinals earning the program's first ever national seed (#7) for the NCAA Championships, a second straight NCAA Regional at Jim Patterson Stadium, a second straight BIG EAST regular season title and the new school record in wins. Four Cardinals - pitchers Neil Holland and Thomas Royse, second baseman Ryan Wright and third baseman Phil Wunderlich - earned All-American honors, while Royse was named BIG EAST Pitcher of the Year, the third different Louisville player to win the league honor in four years. Overall, eight Louisville players earned All-BIG EAST accolades as first baseman Andrew Clark, Holland and Wright joined Royse on the first team, while catcher Jeff Arnold, shortstop Adam Duvall, Ijames and Wunderlich earned second-team honors.

Following the completion of the 2010 season, Louisville had school-record 10 players selected in the 2010 MLB Draft, while Wright became the second Louisville player in two seasons to play for the USA Baseball Collegiate National Team. He was Team USA's top everyday hitter at .361 overall to go with 18 runs scored, a pair of home runs and 12 RBI. Wright made 17 starts in 19 games overall and was named the top designated hitter at the 2010 World University Baseball Championships.

The Cardinals, who earned 40 regular-season wins for the first time in school history in 2009, were led that season by All-American third baseman and BIG EAST Player of the Year Chris Dominguez, All-American left-handed pitcher and BIG EAST Pitcher of the Year Justin Marks and Wunderlich, an All-American utility player and an All-BIG EAST selection. Joining that trio as All-BIG EAST selections in 2009 were Royse (Second Team), Clark (Second Team) and Duvall (Third Team), while Clark also earned the Jack Kaiser Award as the Most Outstanding Player of the BIG EAST Championship.

Following the season, Louisville had three players from the 2009 team as well as five signees selected in the MLB Draft. Leading the way were Dominguez, who was selected in the third round by the San Francisco Giants, and Marks, a third-round selection by the Oakland A's.

The offseason was also a busy one for McDonnell, who served as an assistant coach for the 2009 USA National Baseball Team, which won the World Baseball Challenge and finished with an impressive 19-5 record overall. The Cards' head coach was joined on Team USA by Zych, who worked out of the US bullpen throughout the summer, as well as Cards' catcher Justin Haywood (bullpen catcher for Team USA) and former U of L strength and conditioning coach Eric Hammer (strength coach for Team USA).

The 2008 season featured the continued rise of Dominguez as one of the nation's top players as he was named to five All-America teams, earned BIG EAST Co-Player of the Year honors and was named MVP of the BIG EAST Tournament. Joining Dominguez with All-BIG EAST honors in 2008 were catcher Derrick Alfonso (First Team), Marks (First Team), Clark (Second Team), Ijames (Third Team), second baseman Justin McClanahan (Third Team) and B.J. Rosenberg (Third Team). Marks was named Third Team All-America by two publications in 2008.

Overall, the Cardinals won 41 games in 2008 to earn back-to-back 40-win seasons for the first time in school history and earn back-to-back NCAA Championship bids for the first time in the program's history. Following the season, the Cards also had five players from the 2008 squad and four signees selected in the MLB Draft. Leading the way was Dominguez, a fifth-round pick by the Colorado Rockies who elected to return to Louisville for his junior season.

The first season under McDonnell was more than just the first trip to Omaha in school history as five different players were named to All-America teams. A school-record nine players were named to the All-BIG EAST teams, including three first-team selections and five members of the second team. Senior Zack Pitts was named BIG EAST Pitcher of the Year and Justin Marks was tabbed as BIG EAST Freshman of the Year. Overall, the Cardinals did not lose three straight games and only lost consecutive games five times in 2007.

U of L finished the 2007 season ranked 6th or 7th in all five major college baseball polls. The team set 20 individual career and single-season records as well as U of L team records for at bats, doubles, stolen bases, wins, innings pitched and strikeouts. Six players and four signees were tabbed in the 2007 MLB Draft, including Trystan Magnuson, who was selected 56th overall - the highest pick in school history. Seven players played pro ball following the `07 season.

In the 12 team categories ranked statistically by the NCAA, the Cards were in the top 62 in 11 of them, the top 50 in nine categories and the top 10 in two. Twenty-six individuals ranked in the top 100 nationally and 16 in the top 50. The Cards were second in the nation in steals and senior Boomer Whiting won the NCAA stolen base crown with his BIG EAST-record 73.

Winning is nothing new to McDonnell. In McDonnell's 24 seasons in NCAA baseball as a player and coach, teams he has been a part of have averaged 38 wins per season and have advanced to an NCAA Regional in 15 of those seasons, including 12 of the last 15.

As the top assistant and recruiting coordinator for Mike Bianco at the University of Mississippi for six seasons prior to taking over as head coach at Louisville, McDonnell and the Rebels had four top-20 recruiting classes and three groups that ranked in the top 10 nationally. The first full recruiting class for the Rebels under McDonnell's direction was ranked No. 6 in the nation by Collegiate Baseball. In each of his last two seasons with the Rebels, Ole Miss was one win away from advancing to Omaha.

His recruiting classes produced three first-team Freshman All-Americans, one second-team Freshman All-American and two honorable mention Freshman All-Americans. Former Rebel outfielder Seth Smith, who played for the Colorado Rockies in the 2007 MLB World Series, was the SEC Freshman of the Year in 2002 and first baseman/left-handed pitcher Stephen Head earned the honor in 2003. Head was also selected as one of four National Freshmen of the Year by Collegiate Baseball in 2003.

As the Rebels' infield coach, McDonnell helped coach Head to All-America honors in 2003, 2004 and 2005 to become the first three-time All-American in school history. Head also earned SEC Co-Player of the Year honors in 2004 and was a finalist for the Golden Spikes Award, the most prestigious in college baseball.

A pair of Ole Miss infielders signed and coached by McDonnell, Zack Cozart and Justin Henry were tabbed in the 2007 MLB Draft (second and ninth rounds, respectively). Four of McDonnell's signees and players in his final two seasons at Ole Miss competed in the USA Baseball trials, including Cozart, who was the everyday shortstop for the Cincinnati Reds in 2012.

In the five seasons that preceded McDonnell's arrival at Ole Miss, the team averaged just 28 wins per season and finished no higher than fifth in the SEC Western Division. In his six seasons in Oxford, the team averaged just over 40 wins per season and finished in the top three on four occasions, winning the 2006 SEC Tournament and sharing the 2005 regular season title.

Infielders Josh Christian, Cooper Osteen, Brian Pettway, Jon Swearingen, Matt Tolbert and Head have all advanced to play professional baseball following their tutelage under McDonnell. Head and Pettway were both First Team All-America selections in 2005, while Head was joined by Smith on the US National Team that took home the silver medal in the 2003 Pan American Games.

In the 2005 MLB Draft, Ole Miss was the only team in the nation with four players selected in the top 100. A total of 21 Mississippi players were drafted during McDonnell's final three seasons in Oxford, including six Rebels in the 2006 Draft.

Before his arrival in Oxford, Miss., McDonnell was an assistant and recruiting coordinator at his alma mater, The Citadel, for eight seasons. The Bulldogs advanced to four NCAA Regionals and won five Southern Conference titles during that span. He was the top assistant from 1995-2000.

Primarily working with the Bulldog infielders and hitters, McDonnell also worked with the baserunners, establishing a conference record for steals in a single season in 2000 with 198 in 240 attempts over 59 games. The Citadel was paced by junior outfielder Chris Morris, who led the nation with 84 bags.

During his playing days for the Bulldogs, McDonnell earned four letters, helping The Citadel to the 1990 College World Series, marking the first time a military school has made the trip to Omaha. He was a member of the All-Atlantic Regional team in Miami that same season.

As a second baseman, he was named first-team All-Southern Conference as a junior. He finished his career as the league's all-time leader in stolen bases with 99, a total that now places him fourth in school history. He is the school's all-time leader in walks, picking up 185 bases on balls, and is ninth in runs scored in Bulldog history with 165.

McDonnell graduated from The Citadel in 1992 and later completed his master's degree in business administration in 1995. He is married to the former Julie Anne Underwood of Charlotte, N.C. The couple has two sons, Jake and Justin.

Roger Williams

Associate Head Coach/Pitching Coach | 12th Season

Roger Williams is in his 12th season as pitching coach and fourth season as associate head coach for the University of Louisville baseball team in 2018, where his pitchers have been integral in the Cardinals' four College World Series appearances, 10 NCAA Championship appearances, eight regular-season conference titles and two conference tournament championships.

Throughout Williams' tenure as pitching coach, one of the Cardinals' most consistent strengths has been the team's work on the mound. That continued in 2017 as three Louisville pitchers earned All-America honors highlighted by a pair of national award winners -- consensus National Player of the Year Brendan McKay (11-3, 2.56 ERA, 146 SO) and National Collegiate Baseball Writers Association Stopper of the Year Lincoln Henzman (3-0, 1.67 ERA, 16 SV). Reliever Sam Bordner (2-0, 0.41 ERA, 2 SV) also received All-America recognition as a third team selection by the NCBWA. McKay led a trio of pitchers selected in the 2017 MLB Draft going No. 4 overall to the Tampa Bay Rays while Henzman went in the fourth round to the Chicago White Sox and Kade McClure went in the sixth round to the White Sox. Overall, 28 Louisville pitchers have been been drafted and signed MLB contracts in the last 11 years under the tutelage of Williams.

As a staff, the Louisville pitchers ranked in the top 12 nationally in six different categories in 2017 -- third in ERA, fourth in WHIP, fourth in hits allowed per nine innings, sixth in shutouts, 11th in strikeout-to-walk ratio and 12th in strikeouts per nine innings. McKay anchored the pitching staff closing his career among the most decorated players in college baseball history winning Golden Spikes Award and Dick Howser Trophy in 2017, earning three straight John Olerud Two-Way Player of the Year honors and becoming a three-time First Team All-American after opening his career as the National Freshman of the Year in 2015. McKay capped his three years in Louisville as the program's career leader in strikeouts (391) and ranking No. 2 in career wins (32).

Four Louisville pitchers garnered All-America honors during the 2016 season while the team ranked second in the nation in hits allowed per nine innings, third in shutouts with a school record 11, fifth in ERA, sixth in WHIP, 15th in strikeouts per nine innings and 21st in strikeout-to-walk ratio. The All-America accolades were abundant for Louisville in 2016 as righty Zack Burdi (11 saves, 47 strikeouts in 30.0 IP), lefty Drew Harrington (12-2, 1.95 ERA), McClure (12-0, 2.54 ERA) and McKay (12-4, 2.30 ERA) each earned First Team All-America recognition from various outlets. It marked the second straight season Burdi and McKay earned the national recognition. McKay also became the first repeat winner of the prestigious John Olerud Two-Way Player of the Year Award.

In his first season in the Cardinals' weekend pitching rotation, Harrington emerged as one of the nation's most consistent and dominant hurlers while garnering the 2016 ACC Pitcher of the Year Award. The junior was 8-0 with a 1.33 ERA in his 10 conference starts and became the sixth different Louisville pitcher to earn a conference pitcher of the year award in Williams' 10 seasons with the Cardinals. Harrington was joined by Burdi and McKay in receiving All-ACC recognition. The 2016 season culminated with eight players being selected in the Major League Baseball Draft, including four pitchers -- Burdi (1st Round, 26th overall, Chicago White Sox), Harrington (3rd Round, 80th overall, Atlanta Braves), righthander Kyle Funkhouser (4th Round, 115th overall, Detroit Tigers) and righty Lincoln Henzman (31st Round, Seattle Mariners).

The 2015 season was highlighted by a trio of Louisville pitchers earning All-America honors while the team ranked in the top 12 nationally in five different pitching categories -- third in hits allowed per nine innings, seventh in ERA, ninth in strikeouts per nine innings, 12th in WHIP and 12th in shutouts. The All-American honors included numerous first team accolades for McKay, who was also chosen as National Freshman of the Year by Baseball America, D1Baseball and Perfect Game as well as ACC Freshman of the Year by the league's head coaches. Selected as the John Olerud Two-Way Player of the Year, McKay was 9-3 with a 1.77 ERA, four saves and 117 strikeouts in 96.2 innings on the mound. He finished fourth in the nation in hits allowed per nine innings, 12th in strikeouts, 14th in WHIP and 23rd in ERA.

2015 were Burdi and righty Kyle Funkhouser, third team selections by Collegiate Baseball newspaper. Burdi was 6-1 with nine saves, a 0.92 ERA and 30 strikeouts in 29.1 innings pitched as the Louisville closer, while Funkhouser was 8-5 with a 3.20 ERA and 104 strikeouts in 112.1 innings as the team's Friday night ace. Additionally, McKay, Henzman and Sean Leland were named Freshman All-Americans following the 2015 season. Henzman was named as a Freshman All-American by Baseball America, Collegiate Baseball newspaper and D1Baseball, while Leland was named by Collegiate Baseball newspaper.

A trio of Louisville pitchers were selected in the 2015 Major League Baseball Draft, highlighted by Funkhouser going 35th overall to the Los Angeles Dodgers during the first round. Additionally, lefty Josh Rogers was chosen in the 11th round by the New York Yankees and lefty Robert Strader went in the 12th round to the Baltimore Orioles.

In 2014, Louisville's pitching staff was a key reason for the program's second straight College World Series appearance and the third visit to Omaha in eight seasons. Overall, the Cardinals ranked fifth in the nation in strikeouts per nine innings at 8.4, 12th in hits allowed per nine innings (7.4), 19th nationally in shutouts with eight and 20th in ERA at 2.80. Following the 2014 season, Williams was promoted to associate head coach by Louisville head coach Dan McDonnell.

Individually, the duo of junior righty closer Nick Burdi and Funkhouser led the way earning All-American honors for the Cardinals in 2014. Chosen as the NCBWA Stopper of the Year, Burdi was named First Team All-America by Collegiate Baseball newspaper, Perfect Game, the American Baseball Coaches Association and the NCBWA while setting a school record with 18 saves as a junior. Adding a 3-1 record with a 0.49 ERA and 65 strikeouts in 37.0 innings pitched in 2014, Burdi became the Cardinals' highest draft pick at the time when the Minnesota Twins selected him 46th overall in the second round of the 2014 MLB Draft. The hard-throwing righty closed his collegiate career as Louisville's all-time saves leader with 34 to go along with a school record 1.79 ERA.

In his first season as a weekend starter for the Cardinals, Funkhouser emerged as the ace of the staff earning Second Team All-America honors from the NCBWA and Collegiate Baseball newspaper and Third Team All-America accolades from Baseball America and Perfect Game. Statistically, he set a school record for single season wins finishing 13-3 overall with a 1.94 ERA and 122 strikeouts (third most at Louisville) in 120.1 innings pitched (second most at Louisville) and 18 starts. Following Louisville's trip to Omaha, Funkhouser pitched for the USA Collegiate National Team finishing with a team-high 36 strikeouts and a 1.27 ERA in six appearances and 28.1 innings.

In June, Burdi was one of four Louisville pitchers chosen in the MLB Draft as righty Jared Ruxer was taken in the 12th round by the Los Angeles Angels of Anaheim, lefty Joe Filomeno went in the 15th round to the Texas Rangers and lefty Kyle McGrath went in the 36th round to the San Diego Padres. It marked the second straight season the Cardinals had four pitchers selected in the MLB Draft.

A year earlier, Louisville's second CWS berth was anchored by a pitching staff that ranked among the nation's best as the Cardinals closed the 2013 season at No. 5 in the NCAA in ERA at 2.52, No. 1 overall in strikeouts per nine innings at 9.6, No. 2 in the nation in hits allowed per nine innings (6.93), ninth in WHIP (1.15) and 11th in strikeout-to-walk ratio (2.82 strikeouts per walk). Louisville also set a school record for shutouts in 2013 with 10 surpassing the previous school record of seven set during the program's first College World Series appearance in 2007. For his work with the Cardinals in 2013, Williams was selected as the ABCA/Baseball America Assistant Coach of the Year.

Overall, Louisville finished with a school record 629 strikeouts on the mound while opponents hit just .214 against the Cardinals in 2013. The 2.52 ERA was the lowest for a Louisville team since 1958. During the run to the College World Series, the Cardinals had a 2.47 ERA in seven NCAA Championship games with 60 strikeouts in 62.0 innings pitched. The pitching staff was a key component to Louisville's NCAA Super Regional win at No. 2 national seed Vanderbilt as the Cardinals outpitched the Commodores allowing just three earned runs and a .176 batting average (12 hits, one extra-base hit) in the two-game sweep in Nashville.

Individually, a pair of Louisville pitchers earned All-America honors in 2013 as sophomore righty Nick Burdi (16 saves, 0.76 ERA) was a First Team Perfect Game All-American and a Second Team NCBWA All-American while junior righty Jeff Thompson (11-2, 2.19 ERA) was Louisville Slugger Second Team All-America by College Baseball newspaper, Third Team All-America by Perfect Game and Third Team All-America by NCBWA. Thompson was also selected as BIG EAST Pitcher of the Year marking the fifth time in seven years a Louisville player has earned the conference award. Two more Louisville pitchers - righthanders Kyle Funkhouser (5-1, 2.14 ERA) and Anthony Kidston (5-0, 1.31 ERA) - were named Louisville Slugger Freshman All-Americans in 2013.

Following the season, Louisville had four pitchers selected in the 2013 MLB First-Year Player Draft -- righthander Dace Kime was taken 79th overall by the Cleveland Indians in the third round, Thompson was selected 94th overall in the third round by the Detroit Tigers, righty Chad Green was selected in the 11th Round by the Detroit Tigers and lefty Cody Ege was taken in the 15th Round by the Texas Rangers.

The momentum for the Cardinals' highly successful 2013 season started with an impressive 2012 season when Louisville won the BIG EAST regular season title and advanced to the NCAA Regional final in Tucson. Leading the way for the pitchers was righty Justin Amlung, a Louisville Slugger All-American and the BIG EAST Pitcher of the Year, who was 9-4 with a 2.31 ERA and 105 strikeouts in 109 innings. Righty Jared Ruxer became the second Louisville pitcher to be selected as BIG EAST Rookie of the Year as he went 8-3 with a 3.38 ERA in 14 starts.

Joining Amlung and Ruxer as All-BIG EAST selections was Thompson, who was 9-4 with 73 strikeouts in 78.2 innings, and right-handed reliever Derek Self, who led the Cards with seven saves to go with a 2-2 record and a 3.41 ERA. Following the season, righty Matt Koch led a trio of Louisville pitchers selected in the 2012 MLB Draft when he was taken in the third round (107th overall) by the New York Mets. Self followed by going in the ninth round by the Washington Nationals, while Amlung went to the Cincinnati Reds in the 12th round.

Louisville's trend of success on the mound continued in 2011 when the 3.06 team ERA was the program's lowest in more than 30 years. The pitching staff was led by Amlung, a First Team All-BIG EAST selection, who finished 10-2 with a 2.31 ERA and 80 strikeouts in 105.0 innings of work. Following Amlung was closer and All-BIG EAST honoree Tony Zych, who had 13 saves and was selected in the fourth round of the 2011 MLB Draft by the Chicago Cubs.

The Cardinals' 2010 stable of pitchers was led by First Team All-American closer Neil Holland and BIG EAST Pitcher of the Year Thomas Royse. Holland finished the season ranked second in the nation with 17 saves to go along with an 8-1 record. In 56.1 innings of relief, the First Team All-BIG EAST selection had a 2.08 ERA and 59 strikeouts while opposing batters hit just .160 against him. Royse finished 9-1 with a 2.85 ERA and 99 strikeouts in 104.1 innings of work. Following the season, Royse was selected 114th overall by the Chicago White Sox in the 2010 MLB Draft, while Holland was an 11th Round selection by the Washington Nationals. As a group, the Louisville pitchers led the BIG EAST and ranked 11th nationally with a 3.69 ERA while also leading the league in opposing batting average (.261) and strikeouts (485).

Williams' 2009 pitching staff was led by Justin Marks, who set a single-season school record with 11 wins to earn Second Team All-America and BIG EAST Pitcher of the Year accolades. Marks also finished his three-year career as the Cards' all-time leader in wins (29), strikeouts (305), ERA (2.96) and starts (48) before being drafted in the third round of the 2009 MLB Draft by the Oakland Athletics. Overall, the Cards' 2009 pitching staff led the BIG EAST in ERA at 4.32 and ranked 22nd in the nation.

Along with Marks, Royse also earned All-BIG EAST honors in 2009, while newcomers Derek Self and Tony Zych earned Freshman All-America recognition. Self was 7-0 on the season with a 3.88 ERA, while Zych was 6-2 overall, including a win in the BIG EAST Tournament title game over UConn to earn All-Tournament honors and a win in the Cards' NCAA Regional title game triumph over Vanderbilt to earn All-Regional honors.

After making an immediate impact on the Cards' pitching staff in the program's run to the College World Series in 2007, Williams saw his pitching staff continue its impressive success in 2008 with the program's first-ever BIG EAST Tournament title. The Cards were 4-0 in the tournament, including a pair of wins by Marks, who finished 2008 with a 9-2 record overall and a 2.37 ERA en route to earning First Team All-BIG EAST honors as well as Second Team (Ping!Baseball) and Third Team (ABCA) All-America honors.

In his first season in Louisville, Williams' pitching staff finished the 2007 season with a trip to Omaha and an ERA that closed the season ranked fifth in the nation. Williams dropped the team ERA from 4.87 in 2006 to 3.14 in 2007, despite inheriting a staff that lost six of its top seven arms. The squad set school records in wins (47), innings pitched (636.2) and strikeouts (514), up from 358 in 2006.

BIG EAST Pitcher of the Year, Zack Pitts, who was 1-1 with a 5.74 ERA in 31.1 innings as a sophomore, tied the school record and led the BIG EAST with 10 wins in his first season under Williams in 2007, tossing a record 121.2 innings pitched while posting a 2.52 ERA. Marks was named Freshman All-American and BIG EAST Freshman of the Year after posting a 9-2 record with a 2.67 ERA in 104.2 IP. Opponents hit a conference-low .189 against Marks.

Closer Trystan Magnuson lead the BIG EAST with a school-record 37 appearances and posted nine saves, adding a 1.77 ERA - eighth in Cardinal history and third in the modern era (1975-present). Magnuson was drafted by the Blue Jays with the 56th pick in the draft after going undrafted in 2006, dropping his ERA from 3.69 to 1.77 in one season with Williams.

Skylar Meade more than doubled his career win total, going 9-4 for the Cardinals in 2007, and relievers Gavin Logsdon and Kyle Hollander were both named to the All-Columbia Regional team, combining to allow just one earned run and strike out 12 in 15.1 IP. Logsdon was 2-0 with a 1.92 ERA in 51.2 IP his sophomore year after tossing just 6.1 innings with a 10.50 ERA as a freshman. Hollander was 4-1 with a pair of saves and a 2.40 ERA and signed a pro contract with the Yankees following the season.

Among the elite pitching coaches in college baseball, Williams helped guide Georgia to the College World Series in Omaha, in his first season with the Bulldogs and the year before his arrival in The Ville. Prior to his stint in Athens, Williams tutored the pitchers at his alma mater, North Carolina, for 11 seasons. With a pair of pitchers tabbed in the top two rounds in 2007 (Louisville's Trystan Magnuson and UGA's Joshua Fields) and three of his former pitchers (UGA's Brooks Brown and UNC's Andrew Miller and Daniel Bard) tabbed in the first round of the 2006 draft, he has had nine pupils picked in the first two rounds.

Among the Bulldogs he worked with in his only season at UGA, Brown doubled his win total from four in 2005 to eight in 2006 and lowered his opponents' batting average from .318 to .242 under Williams. Sophomore closer Fields lowered his ERA from 7.00 to a minuscule 1.80, adding a school record-tying 15 saves while earning All-American honors. Weekend starters Rip Warren and Mickey Westfal combined to win four games during the 2005 slate, but under Williams they won a combined 15 games, helping the team go 47-23 and advance to Omaha. Five freshman Bulldog hurlers also saw innings during the 2006 slate, posting a combined 17-6 mark, paced by eight-game winner and freshman All-American Nathan Moreau.

In Williams' final season with the Tar Heels, the team ranked 10th in the nation in ERA (3.17) and advanced to its fourth straight regional. That 2005 staff posted seven shutouts, tying the school mark established during the 2000 season. The 2006 UNC staff that Williams helped develop during the three seasons prior was one of the nation's elite, producing 2006 first-rounders Bard and Miller. Miller earned the Roger Clemens Award, college baseball's equivalent of the Cy Young, was Baseball America National Player of the Year and made All-America honors from every major national outlet. Bard and Miller earned freshman All-America honors in 2004 with Bard being named the ACC Freshman of the Year. In 2005, Miller went 8-4 with a 2.98 ERA while sophomore Robert Woodard led the Tar Heels, going 8-0 with a 2.11 ERA. Sophomore closer Matt Danford was second in the ACC in ERA at 1.41 and recorded nine saves.

A two-time All-Atlantic Coast Conference performer himself as a pitcher in 1984 and 1985, Williams ranked seventh in career wins at UNC with 24, posting a winning percentage of .800 during his three seasons. He enjoyed single-season bests in strikeouts in 1985 with 113 and ERA in 1983, a stunning 1.19. Both are top six in school history. He amassed 254 career strikeouts in Carolina Blue. Williams tied an ACC single-game record with 19 strikeouts against Duke in 1985. Williams was tabbed in the fourth round of the 1985 MLB Draft by the Chicago Cubs and went on to play six seasons of pro ball, including two seasons at AAA Des Moines.

Following his playing career, Williams spent three seasons as the pitching coach at East Carolina, where the Pirates won 41 games in 1993 and advanced to an NCAA Regional. The pitching staff under Williams placed fifth in the nation in team ERA (2.99). Johnny Beck finished his career with the Pirates ranked first in innings (383.1) and second in wins (32) and strikeouts (317) under Williams.

Williams is a native of Greenville, N.C., where his father George was the head baseball coach at ECU from 1974-76. It was there Williams completed his bachelor's degree in physical education in 1992 and earned a master's degree in education in 1993.

Williams is married to the former Stephanie Hensley of Asheville, N.C., and the couple has one daughter, Avery.

2018 Coaching Staff

Eric Snider

Assistant Coach/Recruiting Coordinator | 4th Season

Eric Snider is in his fourth season as an assistant coach at the University of Louisville in 2018, where he serves as recruiting coordinator and hitting coach for the Cardinals.

Introduced as an assistant on July 15, 2014, by Louisville head coach Dan McDonnell, Snider is a highly successful recruiter with an aggressive offensive philosophy. Prior to joining the Cardinals, Snider served 16 seasons on the coaching staff at Illinois, including the previous six years as associate head coach with the Fighting Illini.

"Eric is recognized as one of the top hitting coaches, recruiters and baseball minds in the country. When you talk to people in professional baseball, other college coaches and high school and AAU coaches, there is a consistent theme from everyone on his success - it is hard work and his ability to treat people the right way," said McDonnell. "His offensive approach of putting pressure on a defense is something we're not only very comfortable with, but a philosophy we embrace at Louisville. He is one of the most respected and knowledgeable coaches in the nation and we're excited to have him joining our program."

During Snider's first three seasons in Louisville, the Cardinals have one College World Series appearance, three consecutive ACC Atlantic Division championships, three straight NCAA Super Regional berths, 16 All-American selections (including nine hitters) and 17 players have signed professionally after being selected in the Major League Baseball Draft. During the 2017 College World Series season, the Cardinals ranked in the Top 25 nationally in eight different offensive categories -- 11th in sacrifice flies, 12th in runs scored, 17th in stolen bases, 19th in hit by pitch, 21st in doubles, 23rd in home runs, 25th in hits and 25th in scoring. Snider worked extensively with National Player of the Year Brendan McKay and All-Americans Drew Ellis and Devin Hairston during their three-year careers, which culminated with all three players being selected in the 2017 MLB Draft. With McKay going fourth overall to the Tampa Bay Rays, Ellis going in the second round to the Arizona Diamondbacks and Hairston going in the sixth round to the Milwaukee Brewers, Colby Fitch (13th Round, Philadelphia Phillies) and Logan Taylor (16th Round, Chicago White Sox) joined that trio as MLB Draft picks for the Cardinals, which set a school record with 53 wins and finished the 2017 season ranked No. 5 in every major national poll.

In Snider's second season in Louisville in 2016, he was instrumental as Hairston, McKay, Corey Ray and Nick Solak garnered All-America accolades from multiple media organizations. Each of those four standouts were also joined by Will Smith and Blake Tiberi in earning All-ACC honors. As a team, the Cardinals won their second straight ACC Atlantic Division title and advanced to their fourth straight NCAA Super Regional while ranking third nationally in hits, third in sacrifice flies, sixth in batting average, sixth in doubles, sixth in slugging percentage, ninth in runs scored, 12th in stolen bases, 15th in on-base percentage, 19th in home runs, 20th in scoring and 26th in triples in 2016. The season culminated with eight players being selected in the Major League Baseball Draft, including four position players -- Ray (1st Round, 5th overall, Milwaukee Brewers), Smith (1st Round, 32nd overall, Los Angeles Dodgers), Solak (2nd Round, New York Yankees) and Tiberi (3rd Round, New York Mets).

During his first season with the Cardinals in 2015, Snider helped Ray's rise as an All-American outfielder as well as the emergence of McKay as a two-way All-American. Ray hit .325 with 11 home runs, 56 RBI and 34 stolen bases while earning Second Team All-America accolades from Baseball America and NCBWA and Third Team honors from D1Baseball. McKay, chosen as the National Freshman of the Year by Baseball America, D1Baseball and Perfect Game as well as ACC Freshman of the Year by the league's head coaches, hit .308 with four home runs, 34 RBI and 14 doubles for Louisville, which set an ACC record for conference wins in a single season (25-5) and advanced to its third straight NCAA Super Regional.

Snider helped lead Illinois to NCAA Regional appearances in 2011 (advanced to final of Fullerton Regional) and 2013 (Nashville Regional) as well as the Big Ten regular season and tournament titles in 2011. As associate head coach, he was instrumental in recruiting for the Fighting Illini while also coordinating the team's offense and hitting instruction. He also worked with the Illini infielders and outfielders, directed the off-season conditioning program for the entire squad, served as the third-base coach and was responsible for placing the Illini in summer leagues across the country.

"I want to thank Coach McDonnell for giving me and my family the opportunity to join this great baseball program. My objective is to do everything I can to build upon the winning tradition that has already been established at the University of Louisville and to work each day to take this program to unseen heights," Snider said. "It's truly exciting to have this chance and it's a credit to all of the hard work we've done at the University of Illinois. Honestly, it took my breath away when this chance came to me and I can't wait to get started."

During the 2014 season, Illinois posted its best Big Ten record (17-7) during the conference's 24-game schedule era, finishing in third place and playing in the Big Ten Tournament. Six Illini earned All-Big Ten honors, while shortstop Adam Walton was named a Freshman All-American.

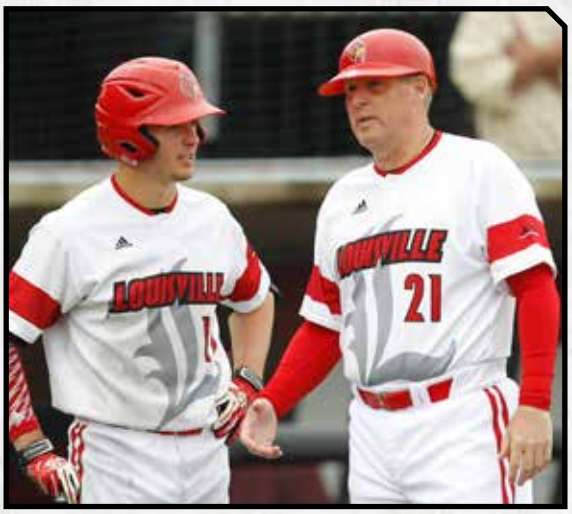
In 2013, Snider coached All-American and Big Ten Player of the Year Justin Parr, who broke the school-record with a 33-game hitting streak and finished the season with a .398 average. Four position players earned All-Big Ten honors, highlighted by Justin Parr, David Kerian and Thomas Lindauer on the First Team and Jordan Parr on the Second Team.



Snider has led the Illini offense to batting averages of better than .300 in nine of his 16 seasons, including a .335 mark in 2008. He also has coached the Illinois defense to fielding percentages of better than .960 in 15 of his 16 years and marks over .965 in 10 campaigns, including a school-record .973 in 2011, a .972 mark in 2012 and a .971 percentage in 2013.

Under his tutelage, the Illini also led the NCAA in double plays per game in 2012 with 1.3. In addition, the Illini's 2008 offense broke school records for hits, runs, RBIs, doubles and walks in a Big Ten season, and fell just three stolen bases short of breaking that record in a conference season.

Snider has been instrumental in Illinois' aggressive offensive approach, including a large number of stolen bases. The 2007 squad posted the most steals in a season in 25 years, swiping 109-of-143 bags. The Illini stole 101 bases in 2008, while the 2010 squad was even better stealing 114-of-144 bases. In 2013, the Illini finished 115-of-143 in stolen bases, marking the second-most steals in school history behind only the school-record mark of 150.

Snider began his Illini tenure by recruiting three Freshman All-Americans in four years in Andy Schutzenhofer (2000), Drew Davidson (2002) and Eric Eymann (2003). Schutzenhofer was a four-time All-Big Ten honoree, finished in the career top-10 in 11 offensive categories, won the 2003 Big Ten Medal of Honor and signed a free agent contract with the St. Louis Cardinals. Davidson was the 2005 Big Ten Player of the year, ranks third on the career homers and sixth on the career total bases lists and was drafted by the San Diego Padres. Eymann hit .359 with a team-high 15 doubles and 71 hits en route to Freshman All-America and All-Big Ten second team honors in 2003.

Recruiting paydirt came again for Snider at Illinois with Freshman All-Americans in 2008, 2009, 2012 and 2014. In 2008, Snider brought in Casey McMurray, who hit .331 on the way to becoming a Freshman All-American, and he landed Willie Argo, who became a Freshman All-American in 2009 when he hit .355 with 12 homers, 47 RBIs and 10 stolen bases. Second baseman/pitcher Reid Roper collected Freshman All-America honors in 2012 when he served as Illinois' closer, going 1-0 with a 4.05 ERA and three saves - including a 0.75 ERA as a reliever - and hitting .293 with nine doubles, one homer, 20 RBIs and 32 runs. Shortstop Adam Walton became the most recent Illini to earn Freshman All-American honors in 2014, leading the Illini with a .329 average and posting an 18-game hitting streak.

Another member of the 2003 class who Snider recruited was not as heralded initially, but catcher Chris Robinson, a native of London, Ontario, Canada, became the highest-drafted position player in Illinois history when he was selected by the Detroit Tigers in the third round in 2005. He has since gone on to play for Canada in the 2006 World Baseball Classic and the 2008 Olympics and reached the MLB in 2013 before retiring.

Snider struck gold once again with a catcher from north of the border when he brought in Alberta native Lars Davis to replace Robinson behind the dish. Davis exploded in the 2007 season, hitting .400, earning All-America honors by three organizations and being selected as the Big Ten Player of the Year. He then followed in Robinson's footsteps, being drafted in the third round of the MLB First-Year Player Draft by the Colorado Rockies.

Overall, 27 position players have made the jump to professional baseball since Snider joined the Illinois staff.?That list includes Jon Anderson, Chris Basak, Dan O'Neill, Craig Marquie and D.J.?Svihlik. Patrick Arlis joined that group after being drafted by the Florida Marlins in the 11th round of the 2002 draft. Three Illini position players signed as free agents in 2003, as center fielder Brandon?Cashman inked a deal with Texas, Sean Patrick signed with Baltimore and Schutzenhofer joined the Cardinals. In 2005, five position players were either drafted (Robinson, Davidson and shortstop Toby Gardenhire) or signed free agent contracts.

In 2007, two Fighting Illini position players were drafted and one more Illini signed a professional deal. Davis and Roof were selected during the two-day draft, while Mike Rohde signed a free agent contract. Hudson made the jump in 2008 as he was drafted in the fourth round by the Baltimore Orioles. Most recently, shortstop Brandon Wikoff was a fifth-round draft pick by the Houston Astros in the 2009 MLB First-Year Player Draft, third baseman Dominic Altobelli was taken in the 16th round by Colorado and center fielder Joe Bonadonna was a 43rd-round pick by the Texas Rangers.

In the 2011 MLB Draft, catcher Adam Davis was an 11th-round pick by the Baltimore Orioles and shortstop Josh Parr was taken in the 12th round by the Arizona Diamondbacks. Willie Argo was a 22nd-round pick by the Tampa Bay Rays as a senior in 2012, the third time in his career that he was drafted. Most recently, three Illini position players were selected in the 2013 MLB Draft, highlighted by Justin Parr being taken in the eighth round by the Phillies. Jordan Parr went in the 15th round to the Arizona Diamondbacks and Thomas Lindauer was taken by the Astros in the 23rd round.

Prior to joining the Illini, Snider was the head coach and general manager of the Waterloo Bucks, a summer collegiate league team that competes in the Northwoods League, from 1995-98. He compiled a record of 163-90 (.644) over the four years and was twice named Northwoods League Manager of the Year. Snider was honored in 2004 for his contribution to the NWL by being named to the NWL-All-Decade team.

Other coaching stints for Snider included serving as an assistant at Austin Peay from 1992-95, working as the manager of the Champaign County Colts in the Central Illinois Collegiate League in 1992-93 and serving as a graduate assistant coach at the University of Iowa from 1990-92.

A two-year letterwinner at Northern Iowa, Snider finished his playing career with a .411 career batting average and 69 stolen bases in 72 attempts on the way to being a two-time All-Missouri Valley Conference selection. Snider transferred to Northern Iowa from Kirkwood Community College where he was a junior college All-American shortstop.

In the classroom, Snider earned a bachelor's degree in physical education and coaching from Northern Iowa in 1987 and added a master's degree in health and physical education from Austin Peay in 1993. A native of Waterloo, Iowa, Snider and his wife Holly have two sons, Jacob and Noa, and one daughter, Jenna.

2018 Coaching Staff

Adam Vrable

Assistant Coach | 4th Season

Adam Vrable is in his fourth season as an assistant coach at Louisville in 2018 after being introduced on Aug. 1, 2014. He serves as Louisville's volunteer assistant working with the Cardinals' hitters and outfielders while also assisting with the program's recruiting efforts. Prior to arriving in Louisville, Vrable spent one season at Charleston Southern, where he served as the hitting instructor for the Buccaneers.

"Adam is one of the top young hitting coaches out there with a background in aggressive baserunning who also has the ability to coach multiple positions on the field," said McDonnell, who led the Cardinals to their third College World Series berth in his eight seasons in 2014. "He brings a lot of energy and enthusiasm to the ballpark every day and that fits perfectly into the way we do things at Louisville."

During his first three seasons in Louisville, the Cardinals have one College World Series appearance, three consecutive ACC Atlantic Division championships, three straight NCAA Super Regional berths, 16 All-American selections and 17 players have signed professionally after being selected in the Major League Baseball Draft. During the 2017 College World Series season, the Cardinals ranked in the Top 25 nationally in eight different offensive categories -- 11th in sacrifie flies, 12th in runs scored, 17th in stolen bases, 19th in hit by pitch, 21st in doubles, 23rd in home runs, 25th in hits and 25th in scoring. Louisville also had one of the nation's top offensive clubs in 2016 ranking third in the country in hits, third in sacrifice flies, sixth in batting average, sixth in doubles, sixth in slugging percentage, ninth in runs scored, 12th in stolen bases, 15th in on-base percentage, 19th in home runs, 20th in scoring and 26th in triples.

Vrable's influence was felt in his only season at CSU as the team won 30 games for the first time in 14 years and established a school-single season record with 20 home wins in 2014. The Buccaneers' bats were a big reason why, as CSU led the Big South and ranked 17th nationally with a .298 batting average.

"I would like to thank Coach McDonnell and the University of Louisville for welcoming me to the Cardinals family. This is an exciting opportunity and I am blessed to be joining one of the best programs in college baseball," Vrable said. "I'm looking forward to working with such an elite staff and a talented group of athletes who all share the same goal...Omaha."

Prior to joining the Charleston Southern program, Vrable spent two years on Fred Jordan's staff at The Citadel, where he worked with hitters and outfielders making a big impact in the Bulldogs' 35-25 record during the 2013 season. The Citadel reached the Southern Conference Tournament championship game on the strength of a prolific offense, which ranked third in the country with 66 home runs. Under Vrable's tutelage, the Bulldogs also placed fourth nationally in slugging percentage, 12th in runs, 13th in batting average, and 19th in hits.

"He's an energetic guy who is fired up for the game of baseball. He brings it every day at practice, which really helps the players to improve and get better," said New York Yankees prospect Bo Thompson, who was not only coached by Vrable at The Citadel but also chose him to be his pitcher for the 2013 TD Ameritrade College Home Run Derby. "He's the first one at the field, the last one to leave and he's always willing to go the extra mile. He has a great mind for hitting, but he's also a great guy on and off the field."

A native of Bay City, Michigan, Vrable enjoyed an excellent playing career at Coastal Carolina University helping the Chanticleers to a pair of Big South Championships and No. 1 seeds in the 2005 and 2007 NCAA Regionals. A 2007 graduate of Coastal Carolina with a degree in history, he led his squad with a .324 batting average during the 2006 season. Vrable is married to the former Renee Rasmer of Bay City, Michigan, and the couple has one son, Hank.

Brian Mundorf

Director of Operations | 23rd Season

Brian Mundorf is in his 12th season as the Director of Baseball Operations in 2018, but he has been a member of the Cardinal staff since 1996. He previously coached the outfielders and hitters in addition to his administrative duties, which included travel, scheduling, recruiting and scouting. He also served as the third base coach.

In his 11 years as an assistant coach with the Cardinals, there were eight All-Conference outfielders, four All-Freshman team members in the outfield and two All-American outfielders (Mark Jurich and Boomer Whiting). Thirty-four Cardinals went on to play pro ball under the tutelage of Mundorf.

He came to Louisville after serving one year as an assistant coach at the University of Tampa under Lelo Prado where he also worked with the outfielders and hitters as well as being responsible for training and developing junior varsity and varsity players. His off-field duties included scheduling, conditioning, game preparation and field maintenance.

He had a successful collegiate career at American International College where he led the Yellow Jackets to the East Regional Championship and the College World Series in 1991. He was named the East Regional MVP in 1991. He captained the 1991 and 1992 squads and was awarded the Henry Butova Memorial Award for outstanding contributions to athletics on and off the field. He departed as the career leader in hits (180) and triples (13) at AIC. Hit a school-record eight triples in `91 and batted .406 in the `89 season.

After graduation, he worked for the Westfield, Mass., Public School System, where he also served as assistant varsity baseball coach. He ran the Westfield Park and Recreation Department's youth basketball league and served as coach, umpire and tournament volunteer for the Babe Ruth League.

A native of Westfield, Mass., Brian and his wife Carrie are proud parents of their two daughters, Olivia and Kaci.

Pat Hassell

Associate Director of Sports Medicine | 9th Season

Pat Hassell is in his fifth season as Associate Director of Sports Medicine at the University of Louisville and in his ninth season overall overseeing the prevention, care and rehabilitation of injuries for the Cardinals baseball program.

Hassell returned to Louisville in the fall of 2013 after working two seasons as the head athletic trainer for the University of Florida baseball program. With the help of Hassell in 2012, the Gators held the No. 1 ranking for the majority of the season, swept through the NCAA Gainesville Regional and Super Regional rounds and advanced to the NCAA College World Series for the third year in a row. Florida made its sixth consecutive NCAA appearance in 2013.

Prior to returning to his alma mater in Gainesville in 2012, Hassell spent four seasons in Louisville working with the Cardinals' baseball and men's and women's golf programs. During his first tenure in Louisville from 2008-11, the Cardinals advanced to three NCAA Regionals, made one NCAA Super Regional appearance (2009), won two Big East regular season championships (2009-10) and earned the program's first-ever national seed in the NCAA Championship (2010).

Before joining the Louisville athletic training staff in the fall of 2007, Hassell spent two seasons as a graduate assistant athletic trainer at Clemson University, where he worked with the Tigers' baseball program. While at Clemson, he worked with the Tigers' 2006 NCAA College World Series and Atlantic Coast Conference title-winning squad, as well as their 2007 NCAA Super Regional team.

Hassell is a 2004 graduate of the University of Florida with a degree in exercise and sport sciences. He was a student athletic trainer in 2002-03, where he worked with the Gators' baseball team which advanced to the NCAA Coral Gables Regional. Following his graduation in 2004, Hassell continued to work for Florida as an intern athletic trainer, where he worked with the 2004 Southeastern Conference Champion Gator volleyball team and the 2005 NCAA runner-up Gator men's track and field team.

Hassell is a certified athletic trainer by the National Athletic Trainers' Association, as well as a Corrective Exercise Specialist by the National Academy of Sports Medicine. He is also a member of the Southeastern Athletic Trainers' Association and is licensed by the Kentucky Board of Medical Licensure. Hassell earned his master's degree in human resource development from Clemson in 2010.

A native of Miami, Fla., Hassell and his wife Maggie reside in Louisville.

Mission

To deliver the finest collegiate sports performance program in the nation- professionally implemented- to reduce injury risk, optimize athlete development, and increase team success.

Philosophy

We are committed to building great athletes and preparing championship teams! Adhering to an holistic approach we address the entire anatomy of a champion- body, mind and spirit. Our comprehensive training system and assessment-driven program design simultaneously impacts prevention and performance, and our creative and competitive methods challenge athletes mentally and physically. Our programs are built on a foundation of education, and are implemented using state-of-the art equipment and leading technology in a world-class facility.

High-Performance Training Principles

1. Character

Becoming a champion requires more than talent and training. A foundation of discipline, courage, perseverance and selflessness is essential for true success. These qualities must be emphasized, modeled, developed and rewarded in all team members.

2. Sport-Specific Training

To be effective a training program must prepare athletes to perform sport-specific movements safely, efficiently and explosively. It must develop energy systems appropriately and promote muscular adaptations that lead to superior sport performance.

3. Multiple Joint Movements

In sport, the entire body works synergistically to produce complex movements. Running, jumping, shooting, kicking and throwing all require multiple joint actions (musculoskeletal system) timed in synchronized recruitment patterns (nervous system). To improve movement quality and overall performance- while reducing injury riskintegrated movements (not individual muscles) must be trained. Louisville Sports Performance

4. Multiple Plane Movements

Sport- by nature- is multi-plane. Movements occurs in the sagittal (forward-backward), frontal (side-to-side) and transverse (rotational) planes- and combinations of the three. Resistance training and movement training (speed/agility) must incorporate exercises and drills that develop starting and stopping strength and overall efficiency all planes.

5. Ground-Based Movements

Most sport skills are initiated by applying force in to the ground, on one leg or two. The more force an athlete can apply against the ground, the faster they will accelerate, the higher they will jump and the more speed they will generate performing sport-specific movements- making them more effective in sport. Exercises must be selected that enhance this ability to generate force at high rates of speed.

6. Explosive Training

The ability to generate force at high rates of speed (power) is crucial in sport. Power output is the result of motor unit recruitment by the nervous system. There are two types of motor units- fast and slow- that vary greatly in their ability to generate force. Training explosively, using ground-based, multiple joint movements trains the body to preferentially recruit fast motor units at high rates of speed. This, in turn, improves performance potential.

7. Periodization/Planning

Short and long-term planning is critical for sport success. With elite athletes performance gains will quickly plateau (and even diminish) if the training prescription is not effectively planned and progressed. Non-linear periodization is a proven model that manipulates training variables (ie: volume, load, relative intensity, frequency, rest, tempo, exercise selection) to progressively overload the body at times, and unload the body at other times, to bring about specific adaptations.

8. Performance Nutrition & Regeneration

No training program can be successful without a commitment to nutrition and recovery. This includes high performance eating, high quality sleeping, and the consistent use of regeneration tools and techniques (stretching, massage, ART, nutrient timing, hydrotherapy and vibration). Without question, the time and energy invested in nutrition and regeneration creates an inside "edge"- making these items a top priority for the LSP staff.

Thortons Academic Center

The state-of-the-art Thorntons Academic Center of Excellence houses academic operations and provides a central location for all student-athletes and academic staff, further assisting UofL student-athletes to excel in the classroom.

The over 40,000-square-foot center features tutorial areas, a high-performance training table to feed the student-athletes, computer laboratories, and office and classroom space that will serve over 750 student-athletes across the Cardinals' 23 sports on a daily basis. A massive artistic video wall greets visitors upon entry in the Republic Bank Atrium and segmented spaces throughout the facility are numerous. The 204-seat auditorium is equipped with an 18.5 feet by 10.5 feet screen and projection system.

Fellowship of Christian Athletes

FELLOWSHIP OF CHRISTIAN ATHLETES

The heart and soul in sports™

The mission of the FCA chaplain is to serve players, coaches and support staff by providing for spiritual growth and character development. The chaplain ministers to these groups in different ways based on their individual needs.

The chaplain is responsible for pastoral care for players, coaches and support staff by building relationships through being available and earning trust. The chaplain provides pastoral care by leading and coordination prayer, chapel services and Bible study; counseling; teaching life skills; helping in character development; and mentoring players.

"Chris Morgan is an integral part of our program. As a coaching staff, we strive to train our players to be successful academically, athletically, emotionally, and spiritually. Chris Morgan and the ministry of FCA offers us the balance required to meet each of these goals."

- Dan McDonnell, Louisville Head Coach

"In his role as team chaplain, I have seen first hand the positive impact Chris Morgan has made in the lives of our coaches and student athletes. Chris does a phenomenal job of motivating, encouraging and inspiring our team to seek excellence in all they do through a commitment to Christian values."

- Brian Mundorf,
Baseball Director of Operations

"Chris and his staff have made FCA a place not only for students to grow in their faith, but a place where they feel loved by their peers. It's a place away from church where students can feel comfortable in hearing about the gospel. Overall, without FCA here, a lot of kids would be lost with no one to talk with and Chris truly helps us on and off the field."

- Nick Burdi, Former Louisville Pitcher

"FCA has had a huge impact on my college career, both as a baseball player and as a person. Having somewhere to go to and get away from the stresses of being a student-athlete is huge. FCA gives me the opportunity to grow in my faith with other athletes who love the Lord."

- Jeff Gardner,
Former Louisville Outfielder

"Chris Morgan means a lot to me and a lot to this university. He is a man who changes people's lives every day and will do anything for anyone. He is a great person if you need someone to talk to and he helps guide you through any situation that may come your way. We're blessed to have him."

- Zach Lucas,
Former Louisville Infielder

"FCA has truly been a blessing to me. It's been awesome to see how FCA has grown over my three years here and has helped me in my walk with Christ. Chris Morgan is more than just our chaplain, he is a brother, a friend and in a way, a second father to me. He has a huge heart and has always been there for me and my family. Words really can't explain what Chris means to me and this university."

- Sutton Whiting,
Former Louisville Infielder

Chris Morgan

FCA Chaplain | 20th Year with FCA

Chris Morgan currently serves as the FCA Chaplain for the University of Louisville athletics department. Chris was born and raised in Louisville and has been with Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) for 20 years. Through this position, he has spoken to many college and professional teams including Duke University, University of Kentucky, Indiana University, Kansas City Chiefs, Cincinnati Bengals, Dallas Cowboys, Texas Rangers and Oakland Athletics.

A gifted speaker and motivator, Chris views his responsibilities not as a job, but as his passion. "FCA is not something I do, it is what I am," says Chris.

Chris is married to the former Tammy Britton and they have three daughters — Taylor, Britton and Lainey.

Snapshots of Louisville Baseball

Pizza Bowl

Upon his hiring as Louisville head coach in the summer of 2006, Dan McDonnell immediately created an atmosphere of competition throughout the Cardinal baseball program. Whether it's through conditioning in the Omaha Challenge, or in preseason scrimmages, McDonnell believes in creating competitive situations to give his players numerous opportunities to prepare for what they will see during conference and NCAA Championship games.

One of the most effective ways McDonnell and his coaching staff can provide the Louisville players with those competitive, game-like situations is through the annual Pizza Bowl series. Following seven weeks of fall practice sessions, the Cardinals take to the field for what started as a one-game scrimmage in the fall of 2006 and has become an ultra competitive five-game intra-squad series. The winning team is rewarded by being served as much pizza as it would like by the losing squad, which in turn shares what is left. The Pizza Bowl series has become an exciting and highly anticipated ending to the fall for Louisville coaches, players and fans.

Home Field Advantage

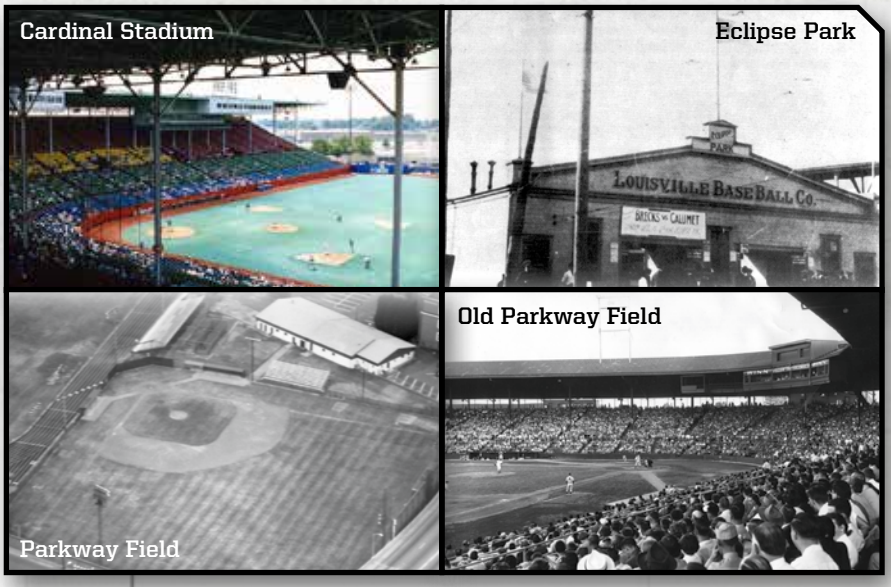
The Louisville baseball team een relatively nomadic over the years, playing home games at Eclipse Park on the corner of Seventh and Kentucky, Shawnee Park, Manual Stadium, Male High School, St. Xavier Field and the Belknap Campus Diamond from the program's inception to 1951. Eclipse Park burned down in 1922 and Parkway Field was constructed in 1923 on the UofL campus adjacent to Eastern Parkway. The first UofL home game at Parkway was in 1924 before it became a full-time home to the Cards around 1952. The grandstand was torn down in 1961.

Louisville baseball made Parkway home until 1996, when home games were moved to Derby City Field. UofL began to play a portion of its games in Old Cardinal Stadium in 1998 and made it a full-time home in the spring of 2000, when the Louisville Riverbats moved to Louisville Slugger Field.

The spacious confines of Cardinal Stadium on the grounds of the Kentucky Exposition Center played host the Cardinal Nine for the first 20 games of the 2005 slate before the move to spectacular Jim Patterson Stadium.

Parkway saw its final demise on January 15, 2005 when the "Green Monster" was torn down. Remnants of historic Parkway Field remain at Patterson Stadium as bricks from the wall support the lighting towers and infield dirt has been placed on the mound and plate area.

Today, the Cardinals have a stadium and adjacent facilities to call their own and are among the best in the nation.



Omaha Challenge

Soon after being hired to lead the Cardinals, head coach Dan McDonnell introduced an intense test of physical and mental stamina during his first fall at the University of Louisville with what he refers to as the Omaha Challenge.

Two captains are selected and teams are drafted to compete against one another in a five-day series of events that tests the athleticism of the teams and the individuals, with a team crown and an individual champion to be named at the conclusion. Sports performance coach Zach Farrel oversees the intense competition, while also motivating his charges to extend themselves to their limits.

Cardinals Baseball Awards

In 2015, Muhammad and Lonnie Ali made a donation to University of Louisville Athletics to endow the Muhammad Ali Leadership Baseball Scholarship, providing a lasting legacy with the Cardinals for the hometown legend. Among the criteria for awarding the scholarship to an active member of the UofL baseball team includes that the student-athlete be in good academic standing, active within the CardsCare outreach program and demonstrates exemplary leadership qualities on and off the field.

Jimmy Carraro was a member of the Cardinals baseball team while he attended UofL in the mid 1970's. The Jimmy Carraro Award was given annually from 2000-15 to a UofL baseball player who exceled in academics, athletics and community involvement, strives for excellence and personifies good sportsmanship.

At the conclusion of every academic calendar, one male and one female student-athlete are chosen to receive the Ed Kallay Award for service to the community as well as accomplishments in the classroom and on the field competition. The baseball team is proud to have supported nine Ed Kallay Award winners.

The Diamond Dolls

The Diamond Dolls are a support squad that contributes to the nationally ranked University of Louisville baseball program. The Diamond Dolls are comprised of 30 young ladies who work at all home, away and postseason games, and various other events affiliated with the baseball program. The squad serves as the primary hostesses at Jim Patterson Stadium and their responsibilities include meeting and greeting the fans, recovering foul balls, retrieving bats and helmets, assisting the promotional team with game day promotions and giveaways and assisting the umpires, attending volunteer work with the baseball team, etc.

The squad is chosen by applications and interviews during the fall semester with co-captains and representatives of the baseball coaching staff. Members of the team must tryout each year regardless of status with the group the previous year. Requirements for consideration for the Diamond Dolls include being a full-time student at the University of Louisville with a GPA of 3.0 or higher, participation in other campus activities, flexible class and work schedule, good communication skills and a team mentality.

2017 Season Review

A Look Back at 2017

The University of Louisville baseball team concluded its record-setting 2017 season ranked fifth in every major national poll after advancing to the College World Series for the fourth time in school history, setting a school record for wins with a 53-12 mark and earning the program's third straight ACC Atlantic Division championship. In addition to the team success, the Cardinals also received numerous individual honors, highlighted by consensus National Player of the Year Brendan McKay.

Advancing to the College World Series for the third time in the last five seasons, the Cardinals won their CWS opener against Texas A&M and finished 1-2 in Omaha before closing the season with their highest end-of-season ranking ever at No. 5. The 53 wins in 2017 for Louisville surpassed the previous school record mark of 51 victories achieved in 2013. The Cardinals are the only team in the country to advance to an NCAA Super Regional in each of the last five seasons while ranking second nationally in total wins (251) during that five-year span.

McKay became the program's first National Player of the Year as the junior two-way standout swept each of the seven awards, including the prestigious Golden Spikes Award and Dick Howser Trophy. The Darlington, Pennsylvania native also earned his third straight John Olerud Two-Way Player of the Year honor and was selected as the ACC Player of the Year. McKay became the highest MLB Draft selection in program history going fourth overall in the first round to the Tampa Bay Rays.

Pitcher Lincoln Henzman was honored as the 2017 National Collegiate Baseball Writers Association Stopper of the Year, a First Team All-American and All-ACC First Team selection while also being selected in the fourth round of the MLB Draft by the Chicago White Sox. Shortstop Devin Hairston was selected as the ACC Defensive Player of the Year, earned All-America honors for the second straight season and was chosen in the sixth round of the MLB Draft by the Milwaukee Brewers.

Drew Ellis emerged as one of the nation's top hitters in 2017 earning First Team All-America honors, All-ACC First Team recognition and was the ACC Baseball Scholar-Athlete of the Year. The third baseman was selected 44th overall in the second round of the MLB Draft by the Arizona Diamondbacks. Additionally, sophomore reliever Sam Bordner was an All-American honoree, pitcher Nick Bennett was a Freshman All-American and All-ACC Third Team selection, Colby Fitch was an All-ACC Second Team member and was selected in the 13th round of the MLB Draft by the Philadelphia Phillies, Kade McClure was an All-ACC Third Team honoree and was chosen in the sixth round of the MLB Draft by the White Sox and outfielder Logan Taylor was taken in the 16th round of the MLB Draft by the White Sox.

Cardinals head coach Dan McDonnell was named as the 2017 National Coach of the Year by Baseball America, the second such honor for the 11th-year skipper after being selected as the National Coach of the Year by Rivals.com following his first season at Louisville in 2007. McDonnell also added his third consecutive ACC Coach of the Year honor this season becoming the first coach to achieve the feat.

Back-to-Back-to-Back ACC Atlantic Division Championships

The Louisville baseball team continued its impressive run in the Atlantic Coast Conference by winning its third straight Atlantic Division championship in 2017. The Cardinals, who set a single season record for ACC wins in their debut season with a 25-5 mark in 2015, have compiled a 70-19 record in the conference during the last three seasons while only Miami (59 wins) and Virginia (52) have at least 50 wins during that span. Louisville has won 26 of its 30 ACC series and is 28-1 in its series finales during that span, including an 11-1 record in rubber games.

Louisville Sweeps Past Kentucky in NCAA Super Regional

The fourth College World Series berth in school history for Louisville was clinched after sweeping the first two games of the NCAA Super Regional against rival Kentucky. The Cardinals never trailed against the Wildcats earning a 5-2 win in game one and a 6-2 triumph in game two. Drew Ellis was the star of the weekend as the junior infielder was 4-for-8 with three home runs and six RBI in the two games. School record crowds of 6,237 in game two and 6,235 in game one packed in to Jim Patterson Stadium to watch the Battle of the Bluegrass.

Cardinals Push NCAA Regional Winning Streak to 15 Games

Louisville won its fifth straight NCAA Regional while extending its winning streak in NCAA Regional games to 15 after sweeping through Radford (11-6), Oklahoma (11-1) and Xavier (8-7) to open the 2017 NCAA Championship. Josh Stowers paced the offense in the opening weekend of the tournament finishing 6-for-10 at the plate with four doubles, one home run and seven RBI in the three games as Louisville finished with 11 extra-base hits in the NCAA Regional.

National Seed for Third Straight Season, Fourth Time Overall

Louisville was chosen as a national seed for the third straight season and the fourth time in school history. The Cardinals were also a national seed in 2010 (No. 7), 2015 (No. 3) and 2016 (No. 2). Louisville made its 10th NCAA postseason appearance in the last 11 seasons and the 11th NCAA appearance overall. Along with the 2017 NCAA Regional, the Cardinals also hosted the regional round of the NCAA Championship in 2009, 2010, 2013, 2014, 2015 and 2016 while also hosting NCAA Super Regional series in 2007, 2014, 2015, 2016 and 2017.

McKay Wins Golden Spikes Award, Dick Howser Trophy; Two-Way Standout Caps Career as Consensus National Player of the Year

Brendan McKay became the University of Louisville baseball program's first National Player of the Year in 2017. McKay swept each of the seven National Player of the Year awards during his junior season, including the prestigious Golden Spikes Award and Dick Howser Trophy. The Darlington, Pennsylvania native was also named as the nation's top player by the American Baseball Coaches Association, Baseball America, Collegiate Baseball newspaper, D1Baseball and Perfect Game. McKay added his third straight John Olerud Two-Way National Player of the Year Award this season and became the highest MLB Draft selection in school history going fourth overall to the Tampa Bay Rays in the first round.

McKay closed his collegiate career with an 11-3 record, 2.56 ERA and school record 146 strikeouts on the mound during final season with the Cardinals. He accumulated a 32-10 record (second most wins in school history) with a 2.23 ERA and 391 strikeouts, the most ever for a Louisville pitcher, during his three seasons. At the plate, he had a .341 batting average, 18 home runs, 15 doubles, 57 RBIs and a .457 on-base percentage in 63 starts as a hitter this season. McKay finished with a .328 career batting average with 28 home runs, 48 doubles and 132 RBIs in 182 career starts and 189 total appearances.

Baseball America Names Mcdonnell National Coach of the Year

Dan McDonnell was named as the 2017 National Coach of the Year by Baseball America after leading the Cardinals through a record-setting campaign during his 11th season at the helm. The honor was the second for McDonnell, who was selected as the National Coach of the Year by Rivals.com following his first season at Louisville in 2007. Under the guidance of McDonnell, who has more than 500 career wins, Louisville closed the season with a 53-12 mark overall after making the program's fourth College World Series appearance, including the third in the last five seasons. The win total set a school record surpassing the previous mark of 51 victories achieved in 2013.

Lincoln Henzman

McKay Wins Third Straight John Olerud Award

Having already set the standard as the only two-time winner of the John Olerud Two-Way Player of the Year Award in 2015 and 2016, Brendan McKay took it to another level earning the honor for a third consecutive season as the 2017 recipient. McKay separated himself in 2017 as not only the best two-way player in the country, but as the nation's top collegiate baseball player. He served as the ace in the starting pitching rotation for No. 5 Louisville and was the cleanup hitter for the Cardinals during his final two collegiate seasons.

Henzman Wins Stopper of the Year Award

Junior righthanded pitcher Lincoln Henzman was named the 2017 Stopper of the Year by the National Collegiate Baseball Writers Association during a news conference at TD Ameritrade Park Omaha, becoming the second Cardinals player to capture the award since its inception in 2005. The announcement was made during the annual NCBWA awards news conference at the home of the College World Series. Henzman ranked third in career saves at Louisville with 19 and third in single season saves with 16 during 2017 season while also adding a 3-0 record with 1.67 ERA and 37 strikeouts in 37.2 innings. He was also named a First Team All-American by the NCBWA and Collegiate Baseball newspaper and was selected in the fourth round of the MLB Draft by the Chicago White Sox to cap his three-year collegiate career.

Ellis Earns First Team All-America Honor, Named ACC Baseball Scholar-Athlete of the Year

Junior infielder Drew Ellis capped his college career as a First Team All-America selection by four organizations and was the recipient of the ACC Baseball Scholar-Athlete of the Year honor. Ellis earned All-America First Team honors from ABCA, Collegiate Baseball, D1Baseball, and Perfect Game to go along with All-America Second Team recognition from Baseball America and NCBWA. A sports administration major from Jeffersonville, Indiana, Ellis was named to the Dean's List and the Athletic Director's Honor Roll this year. The All-ACC First Team honoree led the conference with a .701 slugging percentage and ranked in the top 10 in home runs (No. 2) with 20, total bases (No. 2) with 162, batting average (No. 5 at .355), on-base percentage (No. 6 at .448), runs batted in (No. 7 with 61), hits (No. 8 with 82), and walks (No. 10 with 40).

McKay Named ACC Player of the Year, Hairston Top Defensive Player, Mcdonnell Earns Third Straight Coach of the Year

Junior two-way standout Brendan McKay was named 2017 Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year, junior shortstop Devin Hairston received the inaugural Defensive Player of the Year honor and Dan McDonnell earned his third straight Coach of the Year award. The announcement marked the third straight season the Cardinals have received at least two of the ACC's major individual honors and it is the ninth time in the last 11 seasons Louisville has claimed a conference Player or Pitcher of the Year award.

McKay adds the prestigious Player of the Year honor to his 2015 Freshman of the Year award while also being tabbed as an All-ACC First Team selection as both a starting pitcher and designated hitter/utility player. McDonnell becomes the first skipper in ACC history to receive three consecutive Coach of the Year honors.

Along with the three major award winners, Louisville had four All-ACC First Team honorees as junior third baseman Drew Ellis and junior righthanded reliever Lincoln Henzman accompanied McKay's two selections. Junior catcher Colby Fitch was named All-ACC Second Team, while freshman lefthanded starter Nick Bennett, Hairston and junior righty starter Kade McClure were All-ACC Third Team members. Bennett was also named to the All-Freshman Team.

NCAA Tournament History

College World Series Teams

2014 Cardinals

Coach: Dan McDonnell Post-Season: NCAA College World Series
Details: A year after saying goodbye to 10 impact players from its 2013 College World Series team, Louisville reloaded its roster and returned to Omaha for the third time in eight seasons in 2014. The Cardinals reached the 50-win plateau for the third time in five seasons and won the program's third straight conference title and the fifth in six seasons. Louisville's run to the College World Series started at Jim Patterson Stadium where they swept through the NCAA Regional with wins against Kent State, Kansas and Kentucky. The final step in the return to Omaha was an NCAA Super Regional triumph over Kennesaw State as a school record crowd of 6,007 packed Patterson Stadium to share in the victory.

Coach: Dan McDonnell Post-Season: NCAA College World Series
Details: Six years after making its College World Series debut, the Louisville baseball program returned to Omaha in 2013 closing a record-setting season for the Cardinals. Along with the return to the pinnacle of college baseball, Louisville set a school record for wins going 51-14 and clinched its fourth BIG EAST Conference regular season championship in a span of five seasons. The Cardinals' march to Omaha started at home at Jim Patterson Stadium where they swept through the NCAA Regional before traveling to Nashville, Tenn., where they earned an NCAA Super Regional triumph over No. 2 national seed Vanderbilt.

Coach: Dan McDonnell Post-Season: NCAA College World Series
Details: The Louisville baseball team concluded its record-setting 2017 season ranked fifth in every major national poll after advancing to the College World Series for the fourth time in school history, setting a school record for wins with a 53-12 mark and earning the program's third straight ACC Atlantic Division championship. The path to Omaha for the Cardinals featured a trio of wins in the Louisville Regional against Radford, Oklahoma and Xavier before sweeping past rival Kentucky in the Super Regional. Louisville also added its first CWS win since 2007 with an opening round win against Texas A&M. In addition to the team success, the Cardinals also received numerous individual honors, highlighted by consensus National Player of the Year Brendan McKay.

Coach: Dan McDonnell Post-Season: NCAA College World Series
Details: Led by its first-year head coach, the 2007 Louisville baseball team went on a magical post-season run, which included an NCAA Regional triumph in Columbia, MO, an NCAA Super Regional win over Oklahoma State and the program's first ever College World Series appearance. The 2007 Cardinals closed the season with a 47-24 record overall and No. 6 national ranking.

NCAA Tournament History

2002 Cardinals
Coach: Lelo Prado | Post-Season: NCAA Regional
Details: The Cardinals' 2002 team earned the program's first NCAA Regional berth as an at-large selection. Despite dropping both outings in the Atlanta Regional, the 2002 team served as the table-setter for all future UofL teams by being the first to break through the NCAA door. Louisville finished with a 39-18 record overall and was 21-9 in conference games.

2008 Cardinals
Coach: Dan McDonnell | Post-Season: NCAA Regional
Details: Playing with a bulls-eye on its back following the College World Series appearance the previous season, the 2008 Cardinals got better as the season progressed and won the program's first ever BIG EAST Tournament title to earn the league's automatic NCAA Regional berth. Louisville also finished with a second straight 40-win season with a 41-21 record overall.

2009 Cardinals
Coach: Dan McDonnell | Post-Season: NCAA Super Regional
Details: The 2009 Louisville baseball season was perhaps the most impressive body of work for any team in school history as the Cardinals swept the BIG EAST regular season and tournament titles, hosted their first ever NCAA Regional and advanced to their second NCAA Super Regional in three seasons. UofL finished with a 47-18 record overall and a No. 15 national ranking.

2010 Cardinals
Coach: Dan McDonnell | Post-Season: NCAA Regional
Details: Louisville's 2010 campaign featured the best regular season in school history as the Cardinals won a second straight BIG EAST regular season title and entered the post-season with 46 wins. Overall, UofL finished the season at 50-14 and earned the program's first ever selection as a national seed (#7) for the NCAA Championship. Louisville also hosted an NCAA Regional for the second straight season and closed the year ranked 16th overall.

2012 Cardinals
Coach: Dan McDonnell | Post-Season: NCAA Regional
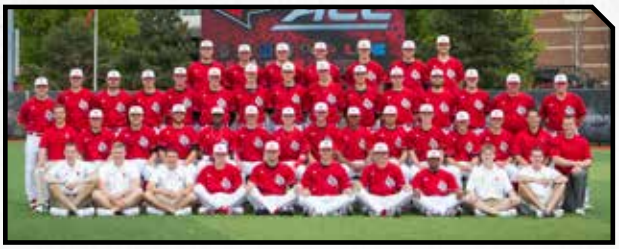
Details: The 2012 season was another successful one for Louisville as the Cardinals won their third BIG EAST regular season championship in four years and advanced to their fifth NCAA Regional in six years. Overall, Louisville finished with a 41-22 record to match the fourth highest win total in McDonnell's six seasons at the helm. The NCAA Regional appearance was the fifth under the direction of McDonnell and the sixth overall in program history. The Cardinals also advanced to the championship round of an NCAA Regional for the fourth time in six years falling to eventual national champion Arizona.



2015 Cardinals
Coach: Dan McDonnell | Post-Season: NCAA Super Regional
Details: The 2015 baseball season was another record-setting campaign for Louisville, highlighted by a dominant debut in the ACC as well as the program's third straight NCAA Super Regional berth. In its inaugural season in the ACC, Louisville ran through the Atlantic Division in record-setting fashion with a 25-5 mark while winning its fourth straight regular season conference championship. For the second time in school history, Louisville was tabbed as a national seed for the NCAA Championship and was named as the No. 3 national seed.

2016 Cardinals
Coach: Dan McDonnell | Post-Season: NCAA Super Regional
Details: The Louisville baseball team closed the 2016 season with a 50-14 record overall after winning its second straight ACC Atlantic Division championship, advancing to the fourth straight NCAA Super Regional and reaching the 50-win plateau for the fourth time in school history. For the third time in school history and the second straight season, Louisville was chosen by the NCAA Division I Selection Committee as a national seed for the 2016 NCAA Championship. Winning at least 50 games for the fourth time ever, Louisville reached the 40-win plateau for the fifth straight season and the ninth time in the last 10 seasons.

Fred Koster

Koster was arguably the first great athlete at the University of Louisville. He lettered in baseball, basketball, football and track. He was the first player in school history to hit for the cycle and hit .557 in 1927. He played a number of years of minor league ball and competed for the Philadelphia Phillies for one season. He went on to have a lengthy career as a respected college football official.

Jim LaFountain - The Game

Jim LaFountain looked like a ballplayer. With the thick sideburns and dark mustache he could just hang out in double-knits and stirrups and fit right in. But he could also swing the stick.

The catcher/first baseman and designated hitter had a 1976 second team All-America, and Academic All-America season that placed his name into the record books at UofL, and his career accomplishments put him in the Cardinal Athletic Hall of Fame.

But it was one game that may well be the greatest ever played at the collegiate level.

On March 24, 1976, the Cardinals faced Western Kentucky in a 5-inning game. LaFountain came to the plate four times in the 26-4 route. His personal box score read like this - (4 4 4 14), a number that looks more like the attendance of a Major League Baseball game.

All four of his hits were home runs.

Three of those bombs were with the bases juiced.

Two of those came in the same inning.

LaFountain drove in 14 runs in the game, a mark that stood as the NCAA record until Florida State's Marshall McDougall broke the mark. LaFountain's three grand slams in the game and two in an inning still stand as NCAA bests. His four homers, 16 total bases and 14 RBI still stand in the UofL record book.

The Cardinal reported that the slugger had studied Red Sox great Ted Williams' "The Art of Hitting" on the Tuesday night prior to the game.

Needless to say he deserved an "A" for comprehension.

Had Western not asked UofL coach Jim Zerilla to mercifully end the game, and LaFountain had dug in for two or three more at bats, it's hard to say what kind of numbers he could have put up.

The Statistical Boom of 1981

The record books for UofL baseball are marked frequently by feats accomplished during the 1981 season. It would figure that it would be one of the greatest teams in Cardinal history, right? Wrong. Most resilient? Now you're getting warm.

The '81 Cards began the campaign staring straight down the barrel of a 112-game schedule. One hundred twelve games. It seems strange that a team can be thankful that 29 of the games were cancelled.

Rain, sleet, snow and cold wiped out 12. Broken contracts and a budget crunch eliminated the other 17. Taking away 29 games from a modern-day schedule would cut the season in half.

The Louisville nine played 32 doubleheaders, three games in a day on one occasion, and 46 games in the month of March. The 83-game regular season was ripped through in 64 days.

Many of the records that stand from '81 are courtesy of the sheer volume, but one performance was even more impressive given the heavy workload. The final day of the regular season stacked the Cards against Metro Conference rival Cincinnati for what else, a doubleheader. In the first game, senior ace John Kehrer tossed a 9-0 no-hitter.

The second game featured freshman Steve Oswald, who went 5.2 innings without allowing a hit. A double just inside the left-field line was the only blemish in a 6-0 blanking of the Bearcats

There were 450 plus naval trainees stationed on the campus in a V-12 indoctrination program and varsity sports were suspended, with the apparent exception of men's basketball. The navy hardball league was organized on an "informal intercollegiate basis," pitting teams based on barracks or companies against one another on a one game per week basis.

The Shirt

For Louisville baseball players, "The Shirt" has become a source of pride and accomplishment in the Cardinals' clubhouse. Awarded to a player who had an outstanding performance or made a key play in a Cards' victory, "The Shirt" was an honor coach Dan McDonnell introduced to the program in 2007.

Prior to each game, a new shirt hangs in the Cards' dugout with a number on the back of it representing the team's next win. Following the game, McDonnell awards the shirt to his key contributor for that Louisville victory. In the first season of "The Shirt", the Cards awarded 47 of them for their 47 wins and the players earned another 41 in 2008. In 2009, the UofL players equaled the 2007 total with 47 more shirts, while the 2010 season ended with a then school record of 50 wins. After winning 41 games in 2012, the Cardinals set a school record in 2013 with 51 wins and added another 50 victories in 2014 to cap back-to-back CWS seasons.

The War-Time Nine

At a glance, the University of Louisville baseball team that took the field in 1946 was your run-of-the-mill team, posting a 5-5 record under Dr. John Heldman Jr.

Granted it was one of just two seasons that Heldman didn't post a winning mark (the other being an 11-11 mark in 1959), but there was nothing on the surface that lead anyone to believe it was anything but ordinary. Well, upon further inspection, this was the first official season of post World War II baseball at UofL.

In 1943 non-collegiate exhibitions were scheduled against city league teams consisting of local businessmen and workers. In 1944, there were 450 plus naval trainees stationed on the campus in a V-12 indoctrination program and varsity sports were suspended, with the apparent exception of men's basketball. The navy hardball league was organized on an "informal intercollegiate basis", pitting teams based on barracks or companies against one another on a one game per week basis. The 1945 team played a season very similar to the 1943 squad.

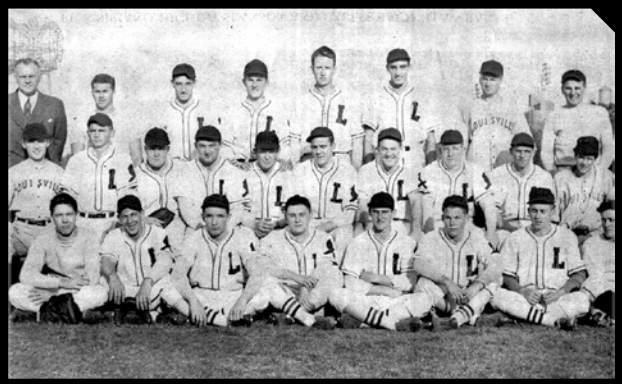
If today's student athlete feels the burden of class work and performing on the field is too much, imagine serving your country in a time of war.

Click was injured once by shell fragments and again when shot by a sniper.



According to The Cardinal, two of the team members were prisoners of the Germans. Third baseman Jimmy Miller (middle row, fourth from right) was captured on January 6, 1945 in Strasburg, Germany. A member of the 7th Army, he was held prisoner until he was rescued by the 14th armored division on May 12th.

Second baseman E.C. Thirlwell (middle row, second from right) was in the 1st Army, and was captured on December 19, 1944, during the "Battle of the Bulge." He was liberated by the Russians on April 22nd and the American 83rd Infantry Division arrived on May 5th, the outfit Steve Click was in.

A number of others were in the service, including first baseman Bob "Sonny Tufts" Crady (back row, fourth from left). Crady was a member of the 513th Parachute Infantry Battalion, and by virtue of leading the Fort Benning baseball league in batting, he had the opportunity to have his picture taken with starlet Jane Russell.

History of Louisville Baseball

1909 Louisville Baseball Team

In 1909, manager A.P. Hauss Jr., coach John Walker and captain Thomas Walker, gathered the University of Louisville baseball team and on April 3, they took to the diamond for the first time in school history.

That was more than a century ago. Now, both World Wars and the Great Depression wiped out a handful of seasons, so there have not been 100 seasons of baseball, but 2008 marked the 101st anniversary of that first team.

The 1909 team ended the season with a 3-2 record, while also playing in 12 exhibition games.

Back in 1924 under Head Coach Fred Enke, UofL faced of with rival Cincinnati for the first time, splitting a home and home set. The following season the Battle of the Bluegrass Nines made its debut.

In 1927 the Cardinals won the S.I.A.A. Championship under coach Tom King, going 8-1, and saw Fred Koster hit for the first cycle in school history against Western on April 22 (four others have since accomplished the feat). A frustrated C.V. "Red" Money and his charges suffered through an 0-7 slate in 1935.

It only took Dr. "Jolly" John Heldman two seasons to recapture the S.I.A.A. Title, going 10-2-1 in 1938, and he repeated in 1939 with an 11-1 mark. In 1944, the V-12 Naval Indoctrination program halted varsity sports with the apparent exception of men's basketball.

On April 18, 1947, the season opened with 42-1 dismantling of Georgetown College that was called prior to the bottom of the fifth because of the score, the most lopsided in school history.

Bob Badger tossed the first no-hitter in school history on May 13, 1949 at WKU.

Behind Steve Riley and Tom Lovell, the 1957 Cardinals went 17-0 for what many consider among the greatest teams in school history. The next season a 10-4 win over UK on May 15 marked the first night game at Parkway Field, a mere 30 years before Wrigley played night baseball.

UofL joined the Missouri Valley Conference in 1963, and Heldman Jr. coached his final game on May 27, 1966 - a 15-4 win over Kentucky Southern - he won his last seven games and was 13-4 in his 28th and final season.

Dr. John Heldman

Mario Cheppo, Harold Adams and Dale Orem, who each made a profound impact on the athletic department in other capacities that placed all of the them in the UofL Athletic Hall of Fame, spent time as head coach of the Cards.

Jim Zerilla was 1975 MVC Coach of the Year with the likes of Jim LaFountain, Mike Shields and Chuck Schupp on the roster. Zerilla would later serve a stint as the pitching coach nearly 30 years later.

The following season Louisville made the jump to the Metro conference, and in 1981 John Boles became skipper after coaching at St. Xavier College. He would later lead the Florida Marlins.

The 1991 squad under first-year head coach Gene Baker blasted 125 home runs over the green monster at Parkway to lead the nation and earn the moniker of the Over-the-Wall gang.

In 1996, Lelo Prado ushered in two new eras when the Cardinals moved into Conference USA, and directed the team to the first regional in school history in 2002 when they advanced to Atlanta.

With two-time national coach of the year award winner at the helm in Dan McDonnell, the Cardinals have made four College World Series appearances and earned 10 NCAA Championship berths in 11 seasons. Having won eight conference regular season championships in the last nine seasons, including three straight ACC Atlantic Division championships, the Louisville baseball program continues to assert itself as one of the nation's elite.

History of Baseball in the City of Louisville

Louisville Slugger

In 1876, the National League chose Louisville to be the host city for one of the charter members of what we now call the senior circuit for two seasons. The Louisville Grays gave way to the Eclipse of the American Association, established in 1882, changed over to the Colonels in 1885 and spent another eight years in the National League. Moses Fleetwood Walker made his major league baseball debut on May 1, 1884 versus the Louisville Eclipse as the first African-American to play pro baseball at the Major League level.

Around that time, Bud Hillerich and his father began turning out bats for players on the Louisville team. Their continued success and relationship with Frank Bradsby blossomed into Hillerich and Bradsby, or what is known today as the preeminent manufacturer of baseball bats, Louisville Slugger.

Teams in Louisville played home games at a number of venues. Louisville Baseball Park is a former baseball ground that was home to the Grays of the National League from 1876 to 1877. The ground was on a piece of property that was later developed into an upper-class neighborhood known as St. James Court. There were two Eclipse Parks in Louisville. The first ground was home to the Colonels from 1882 to 1893, with competitive games dating back to as early as 1874. The second Eclipse Park was also the home of the Colonels from 1893 to 1899 and was where Hall of Famer Honus Wagner made his Major League debut on July 19, 1897. Both parks were located at the corner of 7th and Kentucky.

The American Association's Louisville Colonels played the first game there on April 23, 1902 in front of 6,000 fans. The UofL baseballers played a portion of their games there before it burned to the ground on November 20, 1922.

Parkway Field opened in May of 1923 and was quickly recognized as the finest minor league ballpark in the nation. Lights were installed in 1932, and Jackie Robinson played a professional game at Parkway as a member of the Montreal Royals in 1946. Pictured here on September 9, 1934, Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Grover Cleveland Alexander, Satchel Paige and Pee Wee Reese were among the many stars who took the field. It was host to three Negro League teams as well; the White Sox, Black Caps and Buckeyes. The permanent seats were torn down in 1961, and it became home to the Cards for years to come.

Larrupin Lou's & Bustin Babe's ExhbitionParkway Field, Oct. 24, 1928

On October 24, 1928, New York Yankee stars Lou Gehrig (fifth from left, back row) and Babe Ruth (to Gehrig's left) played in a benefit game at Parkway Field, weeks after they won the World Series, batting a combined 16-for-27 with seven homers. Ruth first visited Louisville on June 2, 1924, when in the ninth inning, according to the Courier-Journal's Bruce Dudley "He socked the gosh-awfullest ball that has ever been croaked in the history of the game in Louisville. The vehemence of this blow stunned a crowd that had come to the park in expectancy of staggering wallops, but no crash of such heft had been imagined by anyone as possible for a human being, but he hit that ball inhumanly."

The famous green left field wall was torn down on January 14, 2005 with some of the bricks going to Jim Patterson Stadium.

Louisville Slugger Field

Professional teams called Cardinal Stadium home from 1982-1999 before Louisville Slugger Field, the home of the AAA Louisville Bats opened. The state-of-the-art ballpark opened in 2000 to rave reviews on the river front in downtown Louisville.

Now Jim Patterson Stadium places another jewel in the crown of Louisville's great history with America's Pastime.

Media Coverage

Louisville Baseball Radio & TV in 2018

The Louisville baseball team's 2018 television schedule features 52 of 56 regular season games on ESPN platforms, including all 30 Atlantic Coast Conference contests for the second consecutive season and all 35 home games. The 52 regular season games slated for television coverage are the most in school history.

With Sean Moth again calling the action, radio coverage will be provided for all regular season games and postseason games for the Cardinals in 2018 with most of those airing on 93.9 The Ville. Selected games within that slate will be broadcast on 1450 WXVW. The 2018 season will mark the third straight season all of the Louisville basebal team's regular season broadcasts have been available on the radio air waves.
