TOWSON

(1-1, 0-0 CAA)

The No. 12 ranked Villanova Wildcats will open the home portion of their schedule this afternoon against the visiting Towson Tigers. The game will also be the CAA opener for both schools. Villanova enters play with a 2-0 record, while Towson is 1-1 on the year.

Villanova's two wins both came on the road in a 19-17 victory over Temple and a 31-9 win at Lehigh. Towson won its season opener over Morgan State (36-10) and lost last Saturday at Wake Forest by a score of 51-20.

Senior quarterback Zach Bednarczyk threw three touchdown passes in last week's win at Lehigh.

In last week's win at Lehigh, senior quarterback Zach Bednarczyk threw three touchdown passes for the second straight week to lead the Wildcat offense. A pair of touchdowns that came less than three minutes apart in the first half provided the spark to a fast start by the Wildcats, who led 20-3 at halftime and scored all 31 of their points unanswered in between scores by the Mountain Hawks in the first and fourth quarters.

Bednarczyk finished the day 16-of-29 for 215 yards, with senior slot receiver Jarrett McClenton his top target. McClenton caught touchdown passes in the first and third quarters, surpassed 100 receiving yards in a game for the first time in his career and finished the day with six receptions for a career-high 114 yards. Senior tight end Ryan Bell scored his second touchdown of the season and sophomore running back Justin Covington recorded the first touchdown of his career.

It took just 2:47 of clock time for the Wildcats to turn a 3-0 deficit into a 14-3 lead during a short stretch that spanned the end of the first quarter and the start of the second. Covington's three-yard touchdown run got Villanova on the board with 1:34 left in the opening period and Bednarczyk connected with McClenton for a 62-yard touchdown at the 13:47 mark of the second quarter.

The first two Wildcats drives of the game consisted of just six plays totaling 11 yards, and an interception thrown by Bednarczyk on the latter drive eventually resulted in the Mountain Hawks making a 21-yard field goal with 6:17 left in the opening quarter. Freshman running back Jalen Jackson returned the ensuing kickoff 29 yards and gave Villanova good field position at its own 37-yard line.

The Wildcat defense held Lehigh to just 176 yards of total offense on the day, including only 32 net rushing yards on 24 attempts. It marked the 27th time in 62 games since the start of the 2013 season that the Wildcats defense has held an opponent to fewer than 100 rushing yards in a contest, and the 12th time in that span that Villanova has allowed fewer than 50 yards on the ground. Sophomore linebacker Amin Black and freshman Owen Thomas each recorded their first career sacks in the game, while three other players all had solo tackles for loss.

Fifth-year senior running back Matt Gudzak broke away for 15 yards on the first play of the drive to get the Wildcats across midfield and Bell caught a 12-yard pass which moved the ball to Lehigh's 36-yard line. Sophomore wide receiver Changa Hodge also caught a 12-yard pass and Bell hauled in a 16-yard catch to set up first-and-goal at the eight. Covington ran once for five yards and then a second time for a three-yard touchdown.

Villanova was led defensively by freshman cornerback Christian Benford who had a team-best six tackles and also his first career interception during the second quarter. Senior linebacker Jeff Steeb, junior defensive lineman Jafonta Johnson and sophomore defensive end Malik Fisher all had a solo tackle for loss in the game.

After Towson quarterback Tom Flacco hit Shane Simpson on an 8-yard touchdown pass late in the first quarter to tie the game at 14-14, Wake Forest scored 24 of the game's next 30 points to take a 38-20 lead at halftime.

The Demon Deacons scored 13 second half points and shut-out the Tigers en route to the 51-20 victory.

In the loss, Towson registered 410 yards of total offense, including 345 yards passing and 65 yards rushing. Wake Forest finished with 582 yards of offense on 340 yards rushing and 242 yards through the air.

Jarrett McClenton has tallied three touchdown receptions in the first two games of the 2018 season.

Flacco led the Towson offense by completing 35-of-51 for 345 yards to go with three touchdowns and one interception. Shane Leatherbury paced the Tiger receivers with eight receptions for 88 yards and a score. Sam Gallahan added four receptions for 61 yards and a touchdown.

Senior linebacker Diondre Wallace led the Towson defense with 16 tackles, including 12 solo stops and a forced fumble. Linebacker Keon Paye reached double figures with 10 tackles, while Mantriel Reaves had an interception.

Villanova returns home next Saturday to host the Bucknell Bison on Family Weekend. Kickoff is set for 6 p.m. Towson will play its home opener next week when The Citadel visits Johnny Unitas Stadium.

HEAD COACH MARK FERRANTE

Longtime member of the Wildcats coaching staff, Mark Ferrante returns for his second season as head coach in 2018. Ferrante was an assistant coach under Andy Talley for 30 years, including 18 seasons as Assistant Head Coach. It was announced at a press conference on January 30, 2016 that Ferrante would become the 30th head coach of the Villanova Football program following Talley's retirement at the end of the 2016 season.

In his first year as the Wildcats mentor in 2017, Ferrante guided an injury riddled team to a 5-6 overall record and 3-5 CAA mark. Ferrante helped four Wildcats earn All-CAA honors last year highlighted by linebacker Ed Shockley and punter John Hinchey who were first team honorees. Villanova also had three players sign NFL free agent contracts including Trey Johnson (Pittsburgh Steelers), Malik Reaves (Kansas City Chiefs) and Shockley (Dallas Cowboys).

Ferrante leads one of the nation's elite FCS programs after playing an instrumental role in the Wildcats rise to national prominence over the past three decades. He has been a part of the coaching staff for all 12 of the team's FCS playoff trips, including three national semifinal appearances and winning the 2009 national championship. Villanova has also won six conference titles, three Lambert Meadowlands Cups and three ECAC Team of the Year awards. Six of the Wildcats playoff appearances have come in the past 10 years alone, and the team has been a mainstay in the national rankings for much of that recent span.

Others have taken note of the success that Ferrante has been a part of throughout his time on the Main Line. At the end of the 2015 season, he was named the FCS Assistant Coach of the Year by the American Football Coaches Association (AFCA). This award was first presented in 1997 and was created to honor assistant coaches who excel in community service, commitment to the student-athlete, on-field coaching success and AFCA professional organization involvement.

Those characteristics exemplify Ferrante's dedication to the complete student-athlete experience, evidence of which can be seen in the program's consistent academic success. The football team has earned public recognition awards from the NCAA in each of the last three years for ranking in the top 10 percent of FCS programs in academic performance measured by the multi-year Academic Progress Rate (APR). In addition, a Villanova student-athlete has been named the CAA Football Scholar-Athlete of the Year four times in the past 11 years. More than 40 student-athletes from the Wildcats have been named to the CAA All-Academic Team in each of the past three academic years.

As Andy Talley's right-hand man for so many years, Ferrante was involved in every facet of the Wildcats program. On the field, he coached the Villanova offensive line for 27 seasons and developed a unit that was traditionally one of the best in CAA Football. Over the years he has coached three All-Americans, 11 All-East performers and 15 first team all-conference selections.

Two of Ferrante's players went on to be NFL draft picks, including second-round selection Ben Ijalana by the Indianapolis Colts (2011) and seventh-round pick Brad Seaton by the Tennessee Titans (2017). Seaton was a second team CAA Football All-Conference selection in 2016, when the offensive line enabled Villanova to average 206.3 rushing yards and 378.7 yards of total offense per game. The Wildcats ranked third in CAA Football and 24th in the nation in rushing offense, in addition to ranking fourth in the league in total offense and fifth with a scoring average of 24.4 points per game.

Ijalana was an All-American in both 2009 and 2010, as well as being a three-time first team All-CAA selection during his collegiate career. Villanova reached the FCS playoffs in each of Ijalana's last three seasons on the team, winning the 2009 national title and advancing to the semifinal round a year later. The other All-Americans who Ferrante has mentored are Eamonn Allen (2001) and Bryan Russo (1989). Allen earned first team Associated Press All-America recognition in 2001 and was also a first team All-East and first team All-Atlantic 10 selection.

Villanova's offensive line produced 17 All-Conference performers over a nine year span, including six first team selections, five second team picks and six third team honorees. In addition to Ijalana, the other first team selections are Brant Clouser (2010), Dan Shirey (2011) and Vince Kowalski (2014).

Ferrante was a standout collegiate player in his own right prior to joining the coaching ranks. He was the quarterback for Andy Talley at St. Lawrence University, where he was named the 1982 Division III Player of the Year and also earned first team All-East honors. Ferrante directed the offense for a St. Lawrence team that went 10-1 during the 1982 season and reached the national semifinals in the playoffs.

Ferrante went on to join Talley's coaching staff at St. Lawrence, and spent one season as the running backs coach in 1983. His other coaching stops before coming to Villanova include coaching the running backs at Wagner (1984) and working on the coaching staff at Lafayette (1985-86).

Ferrante and his wife, Georgea, reside in Phoenixville, Pa. The couple has a 22-year-old son, Jimmy, who earned his degree from Villanova in 2018.

ASSISTANT COACHES

	SAM VENUTO
	OFFENSIVE COORDINATOR/ QUARTERBACKS COACH • 24th Season

In more than two decades on the Villanova coaching staff, Sam Venuto has been instrumental in the Wildcats being among the top FCS programs in the nation and a perennial CAA Football contender. Regarded as one of the top offensive coordinators in FCS football, Venuto is in his 24th season at Villanova in 2018 and his 20th year in the Offensive Coordinator role. He also coaches the Wildcats quarterbacks and handles recruiting in the Philadelphia area and New Jersey.

Throughout his time on the Main Line, Venuto has helped many of his student-athletes stand out on the national level. Most notably, he has helped three different players win the Walter Payton Award as the top player in FCS football. The most recent winner of the award was quarterback John Robertson in 2014, when he was a consensus first team All-American and both the CAA Football and ECAC Offensive Player of the Year. Robertson set the school record for career yards of total offense with 10,933 and finished his collegiate career ranked fourth in school history in passing yards (7,290) and second in rushing yards (3,643). He was the CAA Football Offensive Rookie of the Year in 2012 in addition to winning the Jerry Rice Award as the top freshman in the FCS ranks. Robertson went on to earn All-CAA honors in both 2013 and 2014.

Running back Brian Westbrook was the Walter Payton Award winner in 2001 when he amassed 2,823 all-purpose yards in Venuto's offensive scheme. Westbrook is the most decorated player in school history, and at the end of his collegiate career held 41 school records, 19 Atlantic 10 records and five NCAA records. He became the first college football player at any level to have over 1,000 yards rushing and receiving in the same season, and was the Wildcats first player to be a three-time first team All-American. Brian Finneran was the first Villanova player to win the Walter Payton Award, and he did so in 1997 when Venuto coached the Wildcats receivers. Finneran won numerous awards in 1997, including being named the ECAC Offensive Player of the Year and the Atlantic 10 Offensive Player of the Year.

Villanova had a strong season offensively in 2016 along the way to posting a 9-4 record and reaching the second round of the FCS playoffs. Venuto guided an offense that produced 24.4 points per game and 378.8 yards of total offense per contest. A balance between the running and passing games helped the Wildcats surpass 30 points six times last year, including a string of four straight such games in the midst of a five-game winning streak early in the season.

Sophomore quarterback Zach Bednarczyk continued his development into a top-notch FCS quarterback in 2016 after earning CAA Football Co-Offensive Rookie of the Year honors as a redshirt freshman the previous season. Bednarczyk threw for 2,158 yards with 19 touchdowns in 13 games during the 2016 campaign, and was also the Wildcats second-leading rusher with 539 yards and two scores.

Villanova's primary quarterback has earned CAA Football All-Conference honors in six of the last nine seasons, with Bednarczyk the latest in a line of all-stars under center. His predecessor was Robertson, who led a Wildcats offense that averaged 37.7 points per game with 470.4 yards of total offense during the 2014 season. Villanova led the CAA in both scoring offense and rushing yards per game (242.9) that season, with the rushing average ranking eighth in the country. Robertson was the fifth player to earn conference player of the year honors under Venuto's watch.

During the Wildcats run to their first national title in 2009, Venuto was named a finalist for National Coordinator of the Year after his offense led CAA Football in three different offensive categories. Villanova averaged 30.8 points per game and 194.9 rushing yards per contest, and also led the league with a 149.9 passing efficiency rating. PRESIDENT, REV. PETER M. DONOHUE, O.S.A.

The Reverend Peter M. Donohue, OSA, PhD, became the 32nd president of Villanova University on June 1, 2006. Under his leadership, Villanova has charted a course of significant transformation that includes embarking on an ambitious ten-year strategic plan, launching the University's largest comprehensive fundraising campaign, initiating a vibrant physical campus renovation and dramatically expanding student opportunities.

PLANNING FOR THE FUTURE

Throughout this transformative period in Villanova's history, the University has introduced new initiatives, become more nationally recognized for its academic prowess and broken University admission records. Father Donohue has also worked together with students, faculty, staff, alumni and parents to strengthen the Villanova community and renew its commitment to the institution's Augustinian, Catholic educational mission.

A champion of the role of service learning at Villanova, Father Donohue instituted an annual St. Thomas of Villanova Day of Service as a way for the University community to propel its Augustinian ideals into action. Each September, nearly 5,000 students, faculty, staff and alumni take part in projects throughout Greater Philadelphia. This is just one of the many service learning opportunities at the University, which boasts more than 250,000 hours of service in the local, national and international community.

AN ACCOMPLISHED SCHOLAR

Born in the Bronx, New York, and raised in Royal Oak, Michigan, Father Peter earned a bachelor's degree from Villanova University in 1975 and was ordained an Augustinian priest in 1979. He has a master's in Theatre from the Catholic University of America, a masters in Divinity from the Washington Theological Union, and a PhD in Theatre from the University of Illinois.

Father Donohue is a tenured associate professor at Villanova who served as chair of the University's department of theatre from 1992 to 2006. DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS, MARK JACKSON

Mark Jackson is in his fourth year as the Villanova University Director of Athletics in 2018-19. Jackson is responsible for providing executive leadership, strategic direction and oversight for all of Villanova's 24 varsity sports and more than 550 student-athletes. He is also charged with managing the department's fiscal affairs, personnel, strategic planning, facilities, general operations and public relations. As part of the university's senior leadership, Jackson is a member of the President's Cabinet and is the direct liaison between the Athletic Department and the broader campus community.

Villanova is a member of the BIG EAST Conference and the Colonial Athletic Association Football Conference, and also competes in the Colonial Athletic Association (rowing) and Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference (water polo). In addition, club sports and an extensive intramurals and recreation program fall under the auspices of the Athletic Department.

Jackson is committed to excellence in every facet of the student-athlete experience and to fostering an environment that allows the Wildcats to be successful on all fronts while maintaining Villanova's place among the nation's elite institutions for the combination of its academic prestige, athletic achievement and community service. In Jackson's three years leading the Athletic Department, the Wildcats have won two national championships in men's basketball and an individual NCAA title in men's cross country. Seven different teams have competed in national postseason play in the last three years, and during that span Villanova has won 12 conference championships while producing dozens of individual conference titles.

Even for a school that traditionally stands out nationally for the academic success of its student-athletes, 2017-18 was a banner year for Villanova. When the NCAA announced its annual Academic Progress Rate (APR) public recognition awards in May 2018, the Wildcats led all of Division I with the highest percentage of its teams earning public recognition for having a multi-year APR score that ranked within the top 10 percent of their sport. Villanova had a total of 18 teams achieve this distinction, including football and both the men's and women's basketball programs. In addition, the Wildcats topped the BIG EAST Conference with the most student-athletes named to the BIG EAST All-Academic Team for the third straight year.

Villanova student-athletes have extended their streak of consecutive semesters with a grade-point average above a 3.0 to 30 straight semesters over the last 15 academic years. Even more impressive is that the GPA for student-athletes has been above a 3.2 for seven consecutive terms, with the GPA in Spring 2018 setting a semester record at 3.322. On an individual level, there were 375 student-athletes named to the Athletic Director's Honor Roll in Spring 2018 for having a GPA of 3.2 or higher. A group of 23 student-athletes representing a dozen sports had a perfect 4.0 GPA for the semester.

The 2017-18 academic year was also a notable one in the various fields of competition. Villanova won its second men's basketball national championship in the past three years with a dominant run through the NCAA Tournament. The Wildcats won all six of their NCAA games by double digits, captured the BIG EAST title and finished the season with a school record 36 victories. Jalen Brunson was the consensus National Player of the Year and was also named a second team Capital One Academic All-American.

Also in 2017-18, the women's basketball and men's lacrosse programs each earned at-large berths in the NCAA Tournament after terrific regular season campaigns. It marked the 16th time in the last 19 years that women's basketball advanced to national postseason play, while the men's lacrosse team achieved its highest-ever national ranking when it landed at No. 4 in the USILA Coaches Poll during the year. The women's track & field and cross country programs combined for a BIG EAST "triple crown" in 2017-18, as the Wildcats won conference titles in cross country, indoor track & field and outdoor track & field. Villanova earned a total of nine All-America honors in men's and women's track & field in 2017-18, while the women's swimming & diving program won its fifth consecutive BIG EAST title in dominant fashion.

Villanova was presented with the 2014-15 and 2015-16 BIG EAST Conference President's Cup in each of the first two years that this across-the-board honor has been awarded. The President's Cup recognizes the BIG EAST member school that has excelled at an elite level in athletic competition, academic performance and community service.

During the 2016-17 academic year, the men's basketball team returned to the No. 1 national ranking and won its fourth consecutive BIG EAST regular season title in addition to winning the postseason conference tournament for the second time in three seasons. The women's basketball team won 20 games for the fifth consecutive season and reached the semifinal round of the WNIT for the first time. Men's cross country student-athlete Patrick Tiernan capped his record-setting collegiate career by becoming the second Villanova men's athlete to win the NCAA cross country title. Other highlights from 2016-17 included the football team returning to the FCS playoffs and the men's soccer team reaching the NCAA Tournament for the first time in program history. The women's swimming & diving team won its fourth straight BIG EAST crown in dominant fashion.

The success of Villanova's athletics program in 2016-17 came on the heels of a remarkable 2015-16 campaign which was highlighted by the men's basketball team winning the second national championship in program history. Head coach Jay Wright was named the Naismith Men's College Coach of the Year and the men's basketball team was one of four Wildcats teams that advanced to national postseason play. The women's cross country team earned a berth in the NCAA Championships and the volleyball team made its second-ever NCAA Tournament appearance. The women's basketball team also returned to national postseason play. Villanova finished the year ranked No. 74 in the NACDA Directors' Cup, including second among BIG EAST programs and fifth among FCS football schools.

Jackson's leadership has enabled Villanova Athletics to reach record levels of fundraising in the past three years. Since his arrival on campus, the Villanova Athletic Fund has raised nearly $100 million while posting three consecutive record-setting years in terms of fundraising dollars. Jackson has steadily increased the number of leadership and major gift donors in support of athletics facility projects, most significantly helping to make possible $65 million in fundraising for the 100% donor funded Finneran Pavilion renovation. Other major projects include the October 2016 opening of the $18 million Andrew J. Talley Athletic Center and $4 million in facility enhancements to the Davis Center. Jackson also played a key role in securing $2 million for men's and women's lacrosse locker room upgrades, as well as a $2 million gift for the renovation of the track & field and cross country locker rooms and office space.

In June 2016 Jackson helped to secure an anonymous $1.3 million gift, the largest ever to a Villanova Athletics women's program, for the construction of a new home venue for the field hockey team at the Proving Grounds in nearby Conshohocken, Pa. This transformational gift provides a new home for the field hockey team and positively impacts both the competitive and recruiting landscape of the program. A similar project was completed in September 2016 at the Villanova Ballpark at Plymouth, where the baseball team plays its home games. Through the generosity of alumni and friends of the baseball program, artificial turf was installed on the infield and behind home plate. Outfield wall padding was added in March 2017. In addition to numerous capital projects, Jackson has overseen the successful implementation of the "Nova Points" donor and season ticket holder points system and has prioritized fundraising for staffing, scholarship and operational support in the Athletic Department.

In addition to his responsibilities on campus, Jackson is involved with several external committees outside the university. He is currently the chair of the BIG EAST Athletic Directors Committee and the Big Five Athletic Directors Committee, as well as the Co-Chair of the Collegiate Sports Summit For Athletic Directors.

Jackson came to Villanova with nearly 20 years of experience and a comprehensive knowledge of all sports and the associated support that is necessary to sustain a high-level collegiate athletic program. He most recently served as the Senior Associate Director of Athletics and Chief Innovation Officer at the University of Southern California, where he had responsibility for the university's flagship football program along with baseball, women's lacrosse and support services, including sports medicine, strength and conditioning, nutrition, security and equipment and apparel operations.

Some highlights from his USC experience include oversight of more than $125 million in capital projects, playing a key role in a $300 million fundraising campaign for the USC athletic department, and managing the USC athletic department's dealings with a multi-million dollar renovation of the Los Angeles Coliseum. Prior to USC, Jackson worked at Syracuse University as the Executive Senior Associate Athletic Director, where he oversaw all aspects of athletic administration and support for 20 men's and women's programs. At both USC and Syracuse, he was responsible for expanding the partnerships with key sponsors.

Jackson also developed a strong relationship with the NCAA, assisting with the development of a robust compliance program on campus and working with the NCAA senior leadership to plan and execute an annual Collegiate Sports Summit. He also has experience at the professional level with the Oakland Raiders and the New England Patriots, serving as Director of Football Development with Oakland from 2007-2008 and as a coaching assistant with New England for three seasons (1998-2000).

Jackson was born in Boston, Massachusetts, and played defensive back at Colby College in Waterville, Maine. He received his bachelor's degree in government from Colby in 1995 and a master's degree in public policy from Trinity College in 1997. Jackson, 45, and his wife, Tricia, are parents to four children: Grace, 17; Hannah, 15; Kevin, 13; and Sean, 11.

VILLANOVA STADIUM

Villanova Stadium, home to Wildcat football, field hockey, lacrosse, and track and field teams, has a long and successful tradition. The Wildcats begin their 91st season of conducting intercollegiate athletic events inside the distinguished on-campus stadium in 2018.

Officially dedicated on October 8, 1927, the Wildcats wasted no time establishing a winning tradition inside their new stadium, winning the opening football contest against Lebanon Valley 32-7. The 'Cats went on to extend their home win streak to 14 games before finally suffering its first football defeat in Villanova Stadium in 1930.

Because this historic site includes two memorials to former Wildcats, alumni and fans often forget that the official name of this complex is Villanova Stadium, as it was originally dedicated back in 1927. The first memorial came soon after Villanova Stadium opened. On October 2, 1928, Leo J. Goodreau, a sophomore on the football team, died as a result of injuries received during football practice. On May 7, 1930, his classmates dedicated the playing field to his memory, with a plaque located at the main entrance to the stadium. On September 27, 1980, the track encircling Goodreau Field was dedicated to longtime Villanova track & field coach James "Jumbo" Elliott. Therefore, the 'Cats play football and lacrosse on Goodreau Field, while the track team runs on the Elliott Track, all within Villanova Stadium.

The stadium was originally completed at a cost of $500,000 in 1927. Able to seat approximately 5,500 spectators, the stadium was recognized as one of the finest on-campus collegiate stadiums in the country. In 1930, the stadium had its first addition as concrete stands on the north side were added, increasing the Villanova Stadium seating capacity to 12,000. While the Wildcats continued to expand on their success inside Villanova Stadium, the stadium itself remained relatively unchanged until 1958 when the seating capacity was again increased. Extending the seating in both the north and south seating areas, Villanova Stadium capacity was increased to 13,400. A re-configuring of seats, and replacement of the entire seating with new aluminum bleachers in the summer of 1990 reduced the seating capacity of Villanova Stadium to its current 12,000.

In 1980, Villanova undertook a $1.3 million renovation of the playing surfaces inside the stadium. The old grass playing field and the 'Cats' legendary cinder track were torn up and removed and replaced by an AstroTurf playing field and an eight-lane, Rubaturf 400-meter track. Completed in August 1980, Villanova's new track was officially dedicated the Jumbo Elliott Track on September 27, 1980 in honor of the Wildcat's legendary track and field coach. Twenty-two former track Olympians from Villanova and a score of other Wildcat track and field greats gathered for the official track dedication during halftime of the sold out Villanova - Boston College homecoming football game, a contest the Wildcats won with an impressive 20-9 showing.

In November of 1980, six 100-foot light towers, three on the north and three on the south sides of Villanova Stadium, were installed giving Villanova's historic stadium the capability of evening and night time use. Prior to 1980, there had been one night football game in Villanova Stadium, a 20-20 tie with the Parris Island Marines on October 31, 1952. It wasn't until November 19, 1987, in front of a national ESPN cable television audience, Villanova faced NCAA I-AA No. 1 ranked Holy Cross in the stadium's first-ever intercollegiate night football game.

New to Villanova Stadium in the fall of 1992 was a fresh AstroTurf-8 playing field, and Rekortan-S track. Installed in the summer of 1992, the $1.25 million project began after Villanova's commencement exercises were concluded in the Stadium on Sunday, May 10. The next day, work began on the refurbishment of the playing field and track. The original AstroTurf and Rubaturf surfaces, installed during the summer of 1980, were torn up, and the new surfaces installed over the course of three months.

Each year, Villanova Stadium plays host to a wide assortment of athletic contests ranging from CYO and club levels to high school and international events. Hosting all-star athletic events as well as high school championships, the Jumbo Elliott Track annually hosts some of the East's top collegiate track and field meets, including 25 of the last 38 Big East Conference outdoor track and field championships. In November, 1991, the Stadium hosted the NCAA Field Hockey National Championship, won by Old Dominion University. In the fall of 1998, Villanova Stadium was the site of the Big East Field Hockey Championship. In May of 2013, Villanova Stadium hosted the NCAA Division I women's lacrosse national championships.

In the fall of 1999, the Stadium underwent yet another face-lift with the Stadium Renovation Project. Included in this project was a state of the art press box that included a first class facility for both print and radio media to use, in addition to housing an 80-person meeting room for all Villanova Athletic Department personnel to use.

Yet, most of all, Villanova Stadium is known for Wildcat Football. Since making their debut in Villanova Stadium back in 1927, the Wildcats have compiled an impressive 241-100-5 overall won-loss-tie record on their home field, for a .705 winning percentage. Since the revival of Wildcat Football in 1985, Villanova is 131-53-0 at Villanova Stadium, and 76-41 in home conference contests.

There was a new look to Villanova Stadium in 2002, as the former AstroTurf playing field was replaced during the spring of 2002 with a synthetic grass surface known as AstroPlay.

The Jumbo Elliott Track underwent a remodeling effort in the summer of 2007. Installed was a BSS 1000, 13 mm dual durometer, full pour polyurethane track system. The new track surface will provide the Wildcat Track & Field Program with a first class running venue.

In the summer of 2018, Villanova Stadium underwent another renovation when AstroTurf with rubber infill was installed. This surface includes a root zone 3D3 blend with a brock shock pad as the sublayer. The AstroTurf will provide the stadium with a first class playing surface for all Wildcat teams to use for both practice and game competition.

TO OUR FANS

As a member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA), Villanova University is responsible for exercising “institutional control” over its intercollegiate athletics program. The NCAA holds the University accountable for the acts of anyone identified as a Villanova University “athletics representative.” By definition, an “athletics representative” is any individual who is:

- A season ticket holder.
- A member of an institutional athletics booster club.
- Involved in providing jobs or internships for enrolled student-athletes.
- Involved in promoting the institution’s athletics program.
- Has ever been involved with the Villanova University athletics program.
- Has made contributions to booster clubs or to the athletics department.

Once “athletics representative” status has been reached, fans retain that status for life. Under NCAA legislation, “athletics representatives” are prohibited from any contact (e.g., letters, telephone calls, face-to-face, and social media) with a prospective student-athlete or the prospect’s relatives or legal guardians for purposes of recruiting. Such contacts are to be initiated exclusively by authorized athletics department staff members.

Athletics representatives are subject to NCAA legislation which requires member institutions to revoke or withhold privileges from any individual who has engaged in conduct that is determined by the NCAA, or its member conferences, to be in violation of NCAA legislation, regardless of whether such violation results in the imposition of sanctions. Such benefits or privileges may include, but are not limited to, ticket privileges being withheld by the University to any University-hosted athletics event, for a period of time which the NCAA, and its member conferences, deems appropriate.

We request that “athletics representatives” do not make recruiting contact with prospective student-athletes at any time. No matter how well-meaning your intentions, any contact you make with a prospective student-athlete places you, our University, and the Villanova University athletics program at risk of receiving NCAA sanctions.

If you have any questions, before taking action, please contact our compliance office at the address below and telephone number for clarification. Should you wish to receive more information on applicable NCAA policies, our compliance office will be happy to provide additional information and clarification to you. To request a free copy of our “Guide to NCAA Rules...for Alumni, Faculty & Friends” or to receive clarification of NCAA rules before taking any actions, please email athletics.compliance@villanova.edu or call 610-519-6607.

We are grateful for your wonderful and enthusiastic support, and we appreciate your attention to all NCAA regulations regarding Villanova University prospective and enrolled student-athletes.

Thank you,
Katie LeGrand,
Associate Athletic Director for Compliance

SPOTLIGHT: MEN'S SOCCER

ENDA O'NEILL HAS MOVED INTO A CRITICAL ROLE FOR THE WILDCATS THIS SEASON

By Mike Sheridan

Villanova Media Relations

By the time a college athlete reaches their senior season, they usually have at their disposal a range of experiences that can help them navigate challenges.

Villanova's Enda O'Neill's chest of memories, though, is a little deeper than most.

O'Neill is in his first season as a Wildcat but his fourth as a college soccer player. A graduate transfer from the University of Wisconsin, the defender played an integral role throughout his Badger career on teams that captured Big Ten championships and reached NCAA Tournament play. Now, he has moved into a critical role for the Wildcats, who are 3-1 overall and jumped into the national rankings at No. 15 in the United Soccer Coaches poll this week.

So how does a son of Louisville, Col., one of six children of Colm and Christine O'Neill, find himself at Villanova?

Put simply, it has a lot to do with a willingness to explore a range of experiences, both on and off the pitch.

Throughout the 2017-18 academic year, O'Neill began to look closely at pursuing a graduate degree elsewhere. He would earn his Wisconsin degree in the spring after playing three seasons of soccer, including 40 starting assignments (he sat out the 2014 season). That left him with one season of college soccer eligibility and a unique opportunity to add a graduate degree.

"I was looking for a new academic opportunity as well as a chance to play in a top end soccer conference," says O'Neill. "I found this had the best opportunity with the Villanova School of Business and with this soccer program playing high level competition, week in and week out."

The fit was nearly perfect. The Wildcats graduated an accomplished senior class in 2018, a group that played a large part in the program's first ever NCAA Tournament invitation in 2016. Junior Shane Bradley was the only experienced back returning and O'Neill offered head coach Tom Carlin and his staff an appealing bridge to its next generation.

Carlin has lauded the work ethic and presence O'Neill brings to a reconfigured back three that also includes Shane Bradley and Luca Mellor.

"Enda is tough, hardnosed, and possesses a winning mentality," Carlin says. "He's a fantastic passer of the ball and has a sense of calm to his game which we love."

For his part, O'Neill has felt welcomed.

"Everything's been good," he states. "I've been enjoying the opportunity and soccer challenges. Getting off to a good start helps. This is a highly motivated group that maybe didn't achieve what it wanted to last season. I think that's been a big part of our early success."

The Wildcats' resiliency has been a constant theme early. In the season opener, the Wildcats and Delaware were locked in a 0-0 duel with under three minutes left in regulation. But VU used a throw in to manufacture a set piece and cashed it in. O'Neil raised up to get re-direct via a header a long throw-in from sophomore Richie Schlentz to an unmarked Zach Zandi near the right post. Zandi scored at 2:47 and the Wildcats had themselves a road win.

On Aug. 27, they kept their composure after being scored upon in the final minute and produced a 3-2 overtime win over William & Mary. And then the Cats kept working through a steady downpour to ultimately knock off Loyola 1-0 on Aug. 31. O'Neil has been a critical anchor through it all.

"The resiliency of the group has stood out to me," he says. "Some of those wins, we just dug them out. I think it's a testament to how tight-knit the group is. It's probably the tightest knit group I've played with since I've been in college. Everybody believes and wants to work for it together."

There is the better part of a season to complete but O'Neill's wisdom should prove invaluable as the Wildcats chase a return to the upper reaches of the BIG EAST and another postseason invitation.

"There are a couple of guys on this team who were a big part of that (2016 Villanova NCAA) team so they can attest to it as well," explains O'Neill. "Experience is a huge thing in college athletics. To have been able to have played in those environments and to have played some of the top teams in the country helps.

"To know that those kinds of goals are attainable, even if it's difficult at times, is huge. There's no reason you shouldn't be able to believe in that. When the players have that belief, it's a big thing."

O'Neill is enrolled in a Masters of Science and Finance program in the highly acclaimed Villanova School of Business (No.1 ranked undergraduate program in the nation according to Bloomberg Business along with the top-ranked online graduate business program in the nation in the view of U.S. News & World Report).

"It's a really cool one year program," he states. "You're in a cohort so there are 20 people you're in class with every single day."

That the program is labeled accelerated makes perfect sense.

Enda O'Neill's Villanova experience may not be the norm. It will last only one soccer season. Yet thanks to an openness to exploration, both in the class room and on the field, O'Neill has already made his presence felt.

"I wanted to experience a different part of the country," he says. "It's cool to have experienced different parts of the country and still to be kind of young."

COLONIAL ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

CAA Football has raised the profile of what was once the Yankee Conference, and later the Atlantic 10 Conference, since the league came under the CAA banner in 2007. Over the past nine years, CAA Football has established itself as one of the nation's premier FCS power conferences with regard to on-field success, television exposure, marketability and the achievements of its student-athletes in the classroom, in the community and at the next level.

2015 saw CAA Football once again send four programs to the FCS Championship, including a pair of national seeds for the second-straight year. Richmond went on to reach the national semifinal round, becoming CAA Football's 22nd all-time playoff semifinalist. Additionally, a total of 10 CAA Football student-athletes and coaches were named finalists for the prestigious STATS FCS national awards.

CAA Football reached a national audience last fall with 24 regular-season games broadcast by league network partners, in addition to numerous others showcased on CAA.tv. The CAA's national appeal was further on display when ESPN's iconic College Gameday aired live from James Madison on Oct. 24, marking the show's first trip to a CAA campus.

CAA Football continued its success against non-conference opponents in 2015, finishing 19-11 against non-league foes. On Sept. 26, James Madison tallied the CAA's 32nd all-time win over an FBS opponent by upsetting SMU on the road, 48-45.

A strong presence in the national rankings remained another constant for CAA Football in 2015. Five league schools were ranked at one point during the season, with Richmond, William & Mary and James Madison each finishing the year in the top 12 of both national polls.

For the second-straight season, a total of 17 CAA Football players were named to one or more All-America teams in 2015, led by consensus All-America cornerback DeAndre Houston-Carson of William & Mary. Five more student-athletes earned spots on the CoSIDA and FCS ADA Academic All-America lists.

CAA Football continues to provide a path to the next level, with two players selected in the 2016 NFL Draft. Houston-Carson was drafted in the sixth round by the Chicago Bears and Maine defensive lineman Trevor Bates went to the Indianapolis Colts in round seven. The conference has now had multiple players picked in each NFL Draft since 2006.

CAA Football's emphasis on its players' off-the-field achievements was evident again in 2015. Villanova's Jake Prus was the recipient of the Chuck Boone Leadership Award, which honors the player who best embodies the highest standards of leadership, integrity, teamwork and sportsmanship in his academic and athletic pursuits. Prus was also selected as CAA Football's Student-Athlete of the Year.

Showing a desire to unite behind a common cause, all 12 CAA Football schools partnered with the Be the Match Foundation and its "Get in the Game, Save a Life" program in 2015. The conference's first-ever Be The Match Saturday was held on Oct. 31 to further raise awareness of the need for bone marrow donors.

A legendary era in college athletics came to an end last year when CAA Commissioner Tom Yeager announced his retirement. Yeager was the longest-tenured commissioner at the Division I level, having guided the CAA for 31 years - including nine years of CAA Football oversight. On March 9, 2016, Joe D'Antonio was selected as the second commissioner of the CAA and CAA Football following a national search.

CAA Football has enjoyed a tremendous record in the postseason, earning 94 total playoff berths and at least three in every year since 2006. The league's 91 all-time wins in the NCAA playoffs are second-most of any FCS conference, and the league has further established its presence at the national level by placing 11 teams in the national semifinals over the past 10 seasons.

Villanova's 2009 national championship and Richmond's 2008 title mark the most recent national crowns for CAA Football. In 2004, James Madison claimed the national championship, becoming the first team since the field expanded to 16 teams in 1986 to reach the final after winning three road playoff games. Delaware rolled past Colgate, 40-0, to capture the first title-game shutout in 2003. Former league member Massachusetts earned a national championship in 1998.

CAA Football boasts a total of 26 individual national award winners in league history. Villanova quarterback John Robertson (2014), Old Dominion quarterback Taylor Heinicke (2012), New Hampshire quarterback Ricky Santos (2006), William & Mary quarterback Lang Campbell (2004), Villanova running back Brian Westbrook (2001), Nova wide receiver Brian Finneran (1997), UNH running back Jerry Azumah (1998) and Towson running back Dave Meggett (1998) all won the FCS Offensive Player of the Year award under the league banner. UNH linebacker Matt Evans (2011), James Madison defensive lineman Arthur Moats (2009), and JMU linebacker Derrick Lloyd (2001) each received the FCS Defensive Player of the Year award. Robertson (2012) and Towson's Terrance West (2011) are past recipients of the FCS Freshman of the Year Award. New Hampshire's McDonnell (2005 and 2014), Towson's Rob Ambrose (2011), JMU's Mickey Matthews (1999 and 2008), Villanova's Andy Talley (1997) and Boston University's Dan Allen (1993) are past FCS National Coach of the Year Award winners from the league. McDonnell (2014), Matthews (2004), Talley (1997 and 2009), Delaware's K.C. Keeler (2010), Richmond's Mike London (2008), and Massachusetts' Mark Whipple (1998) have all garnered the AFCA National Coach of the Year honor as well.

The league remains successful beyond the collegiate playing field. CAA Football has had 111 players drafted by NFL franchises dating back to 1948. A total of 33 players have been selected in the draft over the last 11 years, including 2013 Super Bowl MVP Joe Flacco of Delaware (18th overall to the Baltimore Ravens in 2008). More than 30 players currently join Flacco on active NFL rosters.

CAA Football's geographic footprint extends up and down the East Coast, with schools located from Maine to North Carolina. This season's members include UAlbany, Delaware, Elon, James Madison, Maine, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Richmond, Stony Brook, Towson, Villanova and William and Mary.

While CAA Football officially began March 1, 2007, its roots date back more than 60 years. On December 3, 1946, the Code of the Yankee Conference went into effect. Established as an all-sports conference for the New England land grant colleges, the six charter members included Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Vermont. Upon the formation of Division I-AA football in 1978, the league disbanded all sports except for football. Delaware and Richmond were admitted to the conference in 1986, Villanova was added in 1988 and James Madison, Northeastern and William and Mary joined the league in 1993. The Atlantic 10 assumed operational control of the conference from 1997-2006, with Hofstra becoming part of the league in 2001 and Towson joining the group in 2004. With the conference under the CAA Football banner, UAlbany and Stony Brook were welcomed in 2013, followed by Elon in 2014.

Brian Finneran was the first Wildcat to win the Walter Payton Award in 1997.

At the 11th Annual Division I-AA National Football Awards Banquet held on Dec. 1, 1997, at the Official All-Star Cafe in New York City, Villanova University senior wide receiver Brian Finneran (Mission Viejo, Calif.) won the Walter Payton Award given to the top player in I-AA.

Finneran had a storybook career on the Main Line from 1994-97, and was one of the nation's finest players throughout his four years. During his storied career, he caught 265 passes for 3,872 yards and 34 touchdowns. Finneran currently holds 14 Villanova school records including the career marks for receptions, yards and touchdowns.

Arriving on the Main Line in 1994 from Mission Viejo, Calif., along with his twin brother and fellow Wildcat football standout Brad, Brian Finneran was on a mission. He immediately began to turn heads as a freshman in 1994, catching 56 passes for 805 yards and seven scores. Finneran set Wildcat class records for most catches and yards receiving in a season by a freshman. For his performance, he was named to the All-Yankee Conference second team.

Missing the first two games of his sophomore season due to a separated shoulder, Finneran returned slowly but still caught 32 passes for 471 yards on the year.

Finneran's real breakout season came in 1996, when as a junior, he posted 81 receptions for 1,207 yards and eight touchdowns. The honors came from everywhere, as he received first team All-Atlantic 10, All-ECAC, and All-American honors.

His top campaign would come one year later, as a senior, when he took both himself and the Wildcats to the status of one of the nation's best. With a perfect 11-0 regular season, Villanova was No. 1 in the country and posted the first-ever undefeated, untied full regular season in school history. Despite losing a 37-34 heartbreaker to Youngstown State in the second round of the NCAA Division I-AA Playoffs, the season was a memorable one for Finneran and the 'Cats. Finneran finished the year with 96 catches for 1,389 yards and 19 touchdowns. He capped off his career by earning the Walter Payton Award, given to the nation's top Division I-AA player.

Finneran played 12 years in the NFL, including 10 seasons with the Atlanta Falcons from 2000-10.

BRIAN WESTBROOK

2001 WALTER PAYTON AWARD WINNER

After being runner-up in 2000, Brian Westbrook earned the Walter Payton Award the next year in 2001.

Villanova University senior running back Brian Westbrook closed out his illustrious collegiate career in fine fashion on December 20, 2001, when he was awarded the Walter Payton Award given annually to the National Player of the Year in NCAA I-AA football. Westbrook received the award at a banquet held in Chattanooga, Tennessee. The other two finalists for the award included Rocky Butler of Hofstra University and Adrian Peterson of Georgia Southern.

Westbrook received 31 first-place votes and 320 points from the panel of 103 I-AA sports information directors and selected media. Following Westbrook in the voting were Hofstra's Rocky Butler, who earned 22 first place votes and 267 total points, and Georgia Southern's Adrian Peterson, who finished in the top three of the voting for the fourth consecutive year.

Westbrook became the second player from Villanova to win the award. In 1997, former Wildcat and current Atlanta Falcon wide receiver Brian Finneran garnered the award.

In 11 games in 2001, Westbrook led all of NCAA I-AA in both All-purpose yards with 2,823 and scoring with 176 points (29 TDs). The 5-9, 205 pound Westbrook rushed 249 times for 1,603 yards and 22 scores, caught 59 passes for 658 yards and six touchdowns, returned 17 kickoffs for 440 yards and a score, in addition to returning 12 punts for 90 yards during the 2001 campaign. In Villanova's season finale at William & Mary on Nov. 24, Westbrook set the NCAA All-Divisions career all-purpose yards record with 9,512 yards in 44 regular season games.

As a junior in 2000, Westbrook finished third in the Walter Payton Award voting behind Louis Ivory of Furman University who won the award and Peterson who finished second.

The most decorated player in school history, Westbrook finished his Wildcat career with 41 school records, 19 Atlantic 10 Conference marks and five NCAA records. Westbrook became the first player in the history of Villanova football to earn first team All-American honors in three different seasons, when he earned first team All-American acclaim from both The Sports

WALTER PAYTON AWARD WINNERS

Network and the AFCA in 2001. As a sophomore in 1998, Westbrook became the only player in the history of college football at any level to rush for 1,000 yards and receive for 1,000 yards in the same season.

Westbrook played for the Philadelphia Eagles from 2002-09, and with the San Francisco 49ers during the 2010 season.

JOHN ROBERTSON

2014 WALTER PAYTON AWARD WINNER

Junior quarterback John Robertson became the third Villanova Wildcat to win the Walter Payton Award as the top player in FCS Football when he was presented with the prestigious award at the FCS Awards Banquet on Dec. 15, 2014, during a banquet at the Sheraton Society Hill in Philadelphia.

Robertson earned 467 points and 66 first place votes in voting by a nationwide panel of sports information directors, broadcasters, writers and other dignitaries from the division. Eastern Washington quarterback Vernon Adams finished second in the balloting (383 points, 29 first-place votes), while Idaho State signal caller Justin Arias was third with 220 points and 22 first-place votes.

Robertson becomes the third Villanova player to win the Payton Award, with all three winners playing different positions.

Wide receiver Brian Finneran won the award in 1997 and running back Brian Westbrook earned the honor in 2001. Villanova is now the only school to have three Walter Payton Award winners.

Robertson finished the 2014 season by completing 197-of-301 passes (65.4%) with 35 touchdowns and three interceptions. He also had 227 carries for a team-high 1,078 yards and 11 scores. Robertson joins Westbrook (1997-2001) as the only two Villanova players to have three 1,000 yard rushing seasons. In seven of his 13 games this year, Robertson threw at least three touchdown passes.

In the NCAA statistics, Robertson ranked in the top two in five different categories. He led all FCS players in passing efficiency (181.3), points responsible for (280) and points responsible for per game, (21.5) and he ranked second in passing touchdowns (35) and passing yards per attempt (9.46).

Robertson finished his Villanova career with a 27-11 record as the starting quarterback by completing 561-of-875 (64.1%) for 7,290 yards to go with 65 touchdowns and 18 interceptions. He ended his Main Line career as the school's record holder for career total offense with 10,933 yards. He also ranks second in program history in career rushing yards with 3,643 and he is fourth in passing yards with 7,290. Robertson owns three of the top nine single season best rushing totals, including his 1,405 yards in 2013 which ranks as the second best rushing effort in the history of Villanova Football.

Villanova became the first school with three Walter Payton Award winners when John Robertson was presented with the award on December 15, 2014.

The ECAC (Eastern College Athletic Conference) officially began naming all-ECAC teams in 1963. From 1963-69 just one team was named. From 1970-79 the ECAC named a first team offense and defense only. In 1980, the ECAC added second teams for offense and defense.
